Dist. 21 sets referendum on tax increase Oct. 9

A referendum for a tax increase in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 will be held Oct. 9, the Dist. 21 Board of Education decided Thursday night.

Although the board voted unanimously to hold a referendum, the amount of the tax increase will not be determined until the board's next meeting Aug. 5.

The tax referendum was recommended two weeks ago by a citizens' committee studying district finances to help offset the district's financial difficulties.

THE CITIZENS' committee originally recommended a tax increase of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation. If a referendum for that amount is approved by voters, it would generate $600,000 for the district.

However, committee member Herb Stein said if Gov. Daniel Walker signs a new school finance bill which would change the school funding formula, the district would gain only $300,000 from the tax increase.

However, the new finance bill also would eliminate the legal limit the district can tax residents, allowing a tax hike of more than 30 cents. Stein said if Walker signs the bill the board should consider asking for a tax increase of 45 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to provide the full $600,000.

Board member Lillian Stiller said the board should wait until its next meeting before setting the exact amount for the tax increase in order to have more information on the state funding situation.

Supt. Kenneth Gill said he expects Walker to act on the school finance bill by next week. The bill has passed both houses of the Illinois General Assembly.

THIS SPRING, the board made major budget cuts to eliminate a projected $1 million deficit in the 1976-77 budget.

Supt. Kenneth Gill said Thursday the financial future of the district "needs to go before the people in a vote. Let the electorate make the decision on which way we should go."

Gill said two weeks ago the referendum must be held by the last Tuesday in September to provide funds for the 1977-78 school year. However, he said Thursday that it is still possible to hold a referendum for a supplemental tax levy before Dec. 31 and have the money apply in 1977-78.

He said the additional time is needed to publicize the referendum in the community.

Race track officials seek lower exhibit license fee

by BILL HILL

Arlington Park officials have asked the Village of Arlington Heights to lower its licensing fees for exhibition operators because of competition from a new exhibition center in Rosemont.

The village's ordinance requiring exhibition operators to pay 3 per cent of the gross attendance receipts when an admission is charged, or $20 per day if there is not an admission charge, could cause exhibitors to move to Rosemont, Arlington Park officials say.

"We agree the village should be compensated for any incremental services, but the fees it charges shouldn't be prohibitive. I fthey (exhibitors) go elsewhere, there's no benefit to the village," said Sheldon Robbins, Arlington Park treasurer.

THE SHOWS that attract large audiences also benefit other businesses in the village, which in turn adds to the village's sales tax revenue, Robbins said.

The village board's legal committee has directed administration officials to examine the costs of the services provided by the village during exhibitions at the race track.

"From legal counsel, I have gathered that we have the right to tax them, but I think it should be relative to the expenses incurred by the village," said Trustee David Griffin, chairman of the legal committee.

"But I don't think the amount of the tax is going to run anything out of the village. I don't see that as a substantial argument," Griffin said.

The 3 per cent license fee was not strictly enforced by the village until last year. The 10-day Midwest Boat Show and a four-day ski show netted the village more than $3,500 in 1975.

THE OPERATORS of exhibitions have complained about the 3 per cent charge, Robbins said.

Harry A. Leonard, operator of the ski show, last December questioned the charge, saying his show was not charged any license fees or taxes in the five other cities it was held.

No such tax is charged at the new

Police seeking teen who saw Vargo accident

Arlington Heights police are trying to locate a village youngster who reportedly witnessed the accident that fatally injured Patrolman Alan Vargo early Sunday morning.

An unidentified man telephoned police Monday morning and reported that his teen-age son had seen the accident on Arlington Heights Road at Olive Street. The man told police he or his son would contact them later to make a formal statement but has yet to do so, police said Thursday.

From information gathered from the tape recorded conversation, police believe the caller lives in the Oakton Street-Belmont Avenue area of the village.

A DOOR-TO-DOOR canvass of the area, however, has not turned up the caller, investigators said.

Lahti rips press reports as sensationalism

by JOHN FRANK

Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti issued a statement Thursday night saying published reports of his alleged abuses of college policies and personnel are attempts "at sensationalism . . . stemming from vengeance or self-interest."

Lahti's statement said "disgruntled employes, union collective bargaining, and 'unidentified' information sources coupled with 'investigative reporting' from the press are frequently harbingers of attempts at sensationalism, degradation of decision makers and defamation of character sometimes stemming from vengeance or self-interest."

A representative for Lahti said the statement was a "general statement" in reply to charges that Lahti used college personnel for private business, violated college policy by flying first class on college business trips and engaged in illegal unannounced meetings with members of the board.

Lahti will not reply to specific charges until after two committees appointed by board Pres. Shirley Munson to investigate the charges brought to light by The Herald and other newspapers make their reports, the president's represenatative said.

"IN RECENT WEEKS there has been a concerted effirt to undermine the leadership of the board of trustees and their executive administrator. In view of the number of repetitious, inaccurate or misinformed reports, I stand ready to defend that my decisions have consistently represented the public interests," Lahti said in the statement.

One special committee, formed to investigate the possible conflict of interest on Lahti's part for his service on the board of directors of a bank in which the college has an account, reported proper college procedure had been followed in the opening of accounts and the awarding of certificates of deposit.

"No preferential treatment was given to any bank," committee chairman Jessalyn Nicklas told the board. "Discussions of individuals was not within the charge of this committee," she said.

When Mrs. Munson asked if the committee's charge should be extended to include an investigation of whether Lahti's position posed an appearance of conflict of interest, board member William Kelly objected.

"We certainly are not about to place the governance of this board in the hands of the newspapers," he said.

BOARD MEMBER Robert Rausch said further investigation regarding conflicts of interest would be an "unconscionable charge on the ethics" of Lahti.

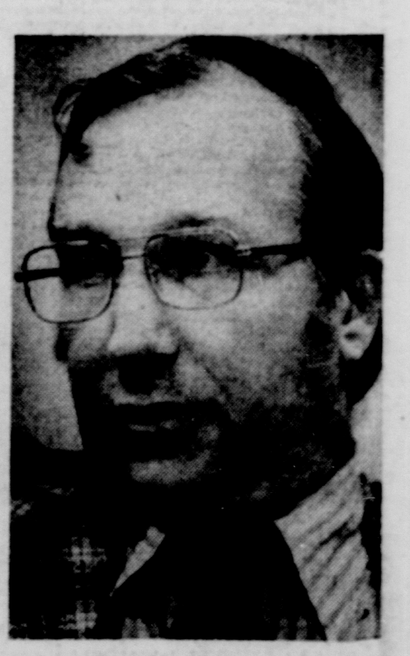

"We are the victims of quotes, misquotes, quotes out of context, in fact we don't even have control over what we say today," Rausch said.

"Where are the charges? Who are the accusers?" he asked.

William Miller, president of the Harper Faculty Senate, raised his hand following this comment, but was not recognized by the board.

RAUSCH, WHO chairs a second special committee, reported his committee has written to local newspapers asking for detailed lists of charges and has also instructed college personnel to present current and past college policies in question to the committee, which will meet July 27.

The board also approved a motion to extend the terms of Lahti's contract another three years. His 1976-77 salary includes an additional $4,000, bringing his total salary and fringe benefits to more than $54,000 annually.

NORTRAN bid for funds refused

Wheeling officials have turned down a request from the financially troubled North Suburban Mass Transit District for an $8,300 loan to continue bus service. Thomas Markus, assistant village manager, Thursday said, "Wheeling isn't even in a position" to consider the loan. "We're in a very tight fiscal situation. I feel bad about their situation but I feel bad about ours, too." NORTRAN is asking the 21 communities it serves for $300,000 to fund operations through Sept. 7 to prevent the district from shutting down. Delay in passage of the Regional Transportation Authority budget led to NORTRAN'S financial troubles. NORTRAN'S request for $37,000 from Des Plaines is expected to be considered by the city council soon.

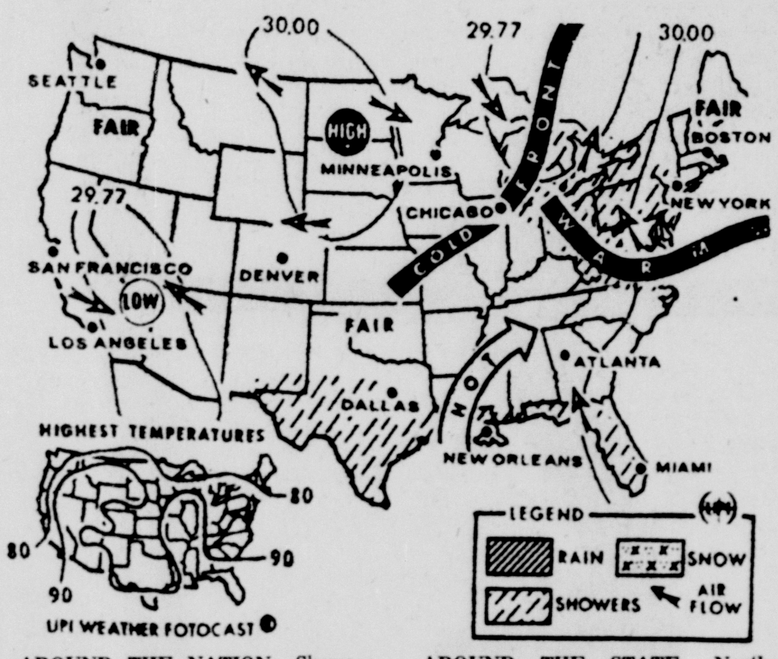

Police seek witness to Vargo death

Arlington Heights police are seeking a youth who reportedly witnessed the accident which killed Patrolman Alan Vargo early Sunday. An unidentified man telephoned police Monday and reported that his teen-age son had seen the accident on Arlington Heights Road at Olive Street. The man told police he or his son would come forward to make a formal statement, but they have failed to do so. Vargo, 24, was killed when he was struck by a vehicle as he directed traffic around the scene of an accident. Police are asking the youth or his father to contact them to aid in the investigation of Vargo's death.

Exhibitor fee hurts track: officials

A 3 per cent exhibitior's fee required by the Village of Arlington Heights is hurting Arlington Park's competitive position with a new exhibition center in Rosemont, Arlington Park officials say. They have asked the village to lower its licensing fees for exhibit operators because they say the charges are driving exhibitors to the O'Hare International Trade and Exhibition Center, Rosemont. The Rosemont center's managing director, John Monahan, said the new facility is booked as far ahead as 1983. However, he said if the center is drawing persons from Arlington Park, it is because of its location, not the 3 per cent tax.

1c gasoline tax gains county OK

by KURT BAER

Gasoline prices in Cook County apparently will be going up a penny-a-gallon Oct. 1 when a new tax, endorsed Thursday by a 10-6 vote of county board members, takes effect.

The tax is certain to be ratified at the board's next regular meeting Aug. 16, said Comr. Carl Hansen, Mount Prospect, one of the six suburban commissioners who were unanimous in voting against the tax during Thursday's committee-of-the-whole meeting.

Hansen said even if gasoline dealers file suit as they have threatened, the tax in all probability will still be collected. The money will be held in escrow until the suit is settled, Hansen predicted.

"THE GAS TAX is a fait accompli per George Dunne's order," Hansen said.

Dunne, president of the county board, proposed the gas tax to pay for raises for county employes and to help finance the county's circuit courts. The tax is expected to raise $18 million.

Gasoline dealers and distributor associations packed the county board room Thursday to protest the tax. Some carried signs saying "Stop George Dunne's Gas Tax."

The meeting was the second public hearing on the tax held by the board's committee.

BUT THE DEALERS and distributors were unable to stop the 10-member Chicago majority on the committee from voting to recommend the tax.

Donald Woodrick, executive director of the Midwest Petroleum Marketers Assn. in Rosemont, has said gasoline interests may file suit on grounds that the tax is discriminatory because it is to be imposed only on gasoline sales and not other petroleum products. Dunne said Thursday the tax was "regrettable" and "distasteful," but necessary to the financing of county government. He discounted the protest by dealers and distributors, saying that it will be the driving public, not the dealers, who will have to pay the extra penny-a-gallon.

Hansen said he opposed the tax because driving and gasoline is a necessity today, "something that cannot be taken in the same context as liquor." The county recently imposed a $1-a-gallon tax on hard liquor.

A SUIT BY THE Illinois Liquor Dealers Assn. forced the tax money into escrow until the Illinois Supreme Court ruled the tax was constitutional last September.

"There was testimony that over half the mileage in Cook County is getting to and from work," Hansen said. "It may not be quite as obvious as the county head tax proposal, but what we're talking about with the gas tax is the viability of our economy in Cook County."

Hansen said revised copies of the gas tax ordinance were passed out just 24 hours before Thursday's meeting. Gasoline interests had little opportunity to review the measure, he said.

The revised ordinance is intended to clarify the definition of gasoline sales and where the tax is to be collected, apparently in response to Woodrick's assertion that the ordinance was vague and discriminatory.

Water woes hit suburbs; towns restrict sprinkling

The current water crisis has ignored municipal boundaries in the Northwest suburbs, with dropping water tables and sprinkling restrictions becoming common maladies.

Eight of the municpalities have united in SHARE + 3, a regional organization seeking water from Lake Michigan. The group includes Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Mount Prospect.

A survey of the SHARE + 3 communities shows the following water situation:

• Arlington Heights: Donald Renner, superintendent of utilities, has said although the aquifer (the level from which communities draw water) is recovering slightly, the over-all level has dropped about 50 feet in the past month. He said it will take until fall to recover from the drop. Sprinkling in the village is allowed only on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

• Palatine: All eight wells are currently operating and there is no water problem in the village. The community did impose a sprinkling ban for two days this month when one well broke down because of a malfunctioning clutch in a pumping station. The village has an ordinance that allows odd numbered houses to sprinkle only on odd-numbered days and even-numbered houses to sprinkle on even-numbered days.

• Schaumburg: The village has had little trouble with its wells or supplying its residents with water. A 10-year-old ordinance allowing odd-numbered addresses to sprinkle on odd-numbered days and vice versa is in effect and has just started to be enforced.

• Hoffman Estates: Water officials have said Hoffman does not have a water problem at this point. However, because at peak usage periods emergency water supplies may be threatened, the village has enacted a 2 to 8 p.m. daily sprinkling restriction. The restriction, which goes into effect Aug. 8 and ends Oct. 1, was enacted because the period from 2 to 8 p.m. is the time of day that the village found the most difficult to maintain water supplies.

• Mount Prospect: Although the village has had no trouble with its wells, the community has enacted a total ban on sprinkling Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and a partial ban between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. The ordinances will go into effect Aug. 1.

• Buffalo Grove: Village Engineer Arnold Seaberg has said that water supply is "probably the most serious matter facing the village in the next few years," although there is no current water crisis. The village is using fire storage water to meet consumer demand and is pushing its well capacity to the limit. Wells have run 18 to 24 hours a day during hot spells. The village board agreed this week to construct an $800,000 sixth well and fund a $20,000 study of the village water system by a private firm. Sprinkling is allowed Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for even-numbered addresses and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays for odd numbers. No sprinkling is allowed Friday.

• Elk Grove Village: The village board has just enacted a 30-day moratorium on issuing new building permits which involve plumbing, to halt any additional demands on the village's strained water system until an engineering study is made

The village has had a total ban on sprinkling, except for permits issued to owners of new lawns, since June 22. Residents had complained of water pressure so low that they could not flush toilets or take showers.

Village Engineer Donald Ciaglia said the village is pumping slightly more water than it is using but heavy localized use caused low pressure areas. The situation should be back to normal when one or two of the three wells out of operation begin working.

Although not a part of SHARE + 3, Wheeling has a ban on all sprinkling except for new lawns, gardens and flowers. Des Plaines, originally interested in a similar water group, now has Lake Michigan water and is experiencing no problems.

All-points bulletin issued in kidnap case

A POLICE TASK force Thursday combed the 100-acre estate of Fred Woods III in the wealthy San Mateo County suburbs south of San Francisco in pursuit of thrill-seeking kidnapers who last week hijacked a bus load of school children. In foreground are some of the vehicles found on the estate. In right photo is old truck trailer of the type in which the kids were entombed.

From Herald news services

A nationwide manhunt is under way for three men accused of the kidnaping and underground imprisonment of 26 school children and their bus driver a week ago.

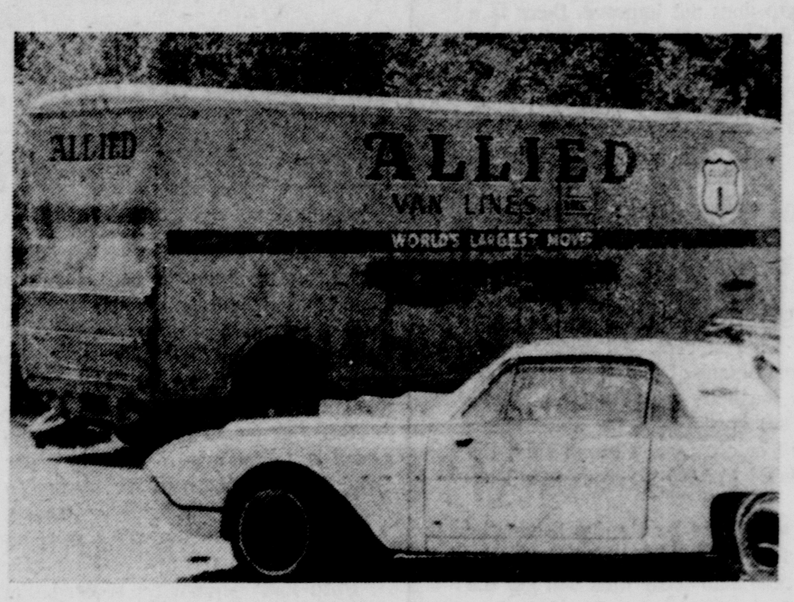

Alameda County, Calif., sheriff's police Thursday night issued a nationwide all-points bulletin for Fred Newhall Woods, 24, James Leonard Schoenfeld, 24, and his brother Richard Allen Schoenfeld, 22.

Police described the trio as armed and dangerous.

Police issued the alert at 8 p.m. Thursday following a search of the 100-acre Redwood City, Calif., estate owned by Woods' father, Fred Nickerson Woods. Woods is operator of the quarry in Livermore, Calif., about 45 miles east of San Francisco, where the kidnap victims were held.

The estate was the focal point of a manhunt in the wealthy suburbs south of San Francisco for the three men wanted in the abduction and 16-hour imprisonment of the victims from Chowchilla, Calif.

With three sheriffs directing the hunt, 30 deputies armed with search warrants sought clues after the Sacramento and Fresno Bee newspapers reported the kidnapers may have been sons of prominent families in San Mateo County.

Woods and the Schoenfeld brothers are wanted for questioning by police. One area of questioning was believed to concern the purchase last November of a moving van and three smaller vans used in the abduction.

Deputies found about 100 cars and trucks lined up in rows in a clearing of the estate. One van was similar to the one in which the children were sealed in the underground prison chamber.

San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald said young Woods was well known in the area and had a hobby of buying and restoring old vehicles.

An associate in this enterprise was identified as James Schoenfeld. He and his brother are sons of a doctor in nearby Atherton.

The Alameda County district attorney's office said no arrest warrants have been issued. It said three persons named in the search warrant were wanted solely for questioning and were not "suspects" at the present time. The affidavit was sealed by a judge in San Mateo County.

McDonald said young Woods apparently was not on the grounds of the estate, but that officers representing the three counties and the FBI were met "graciously" by his father and mother, a grandmother and her three attendants.

Potentially serious problem found on Viking 1

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The digging arm on Viking 1 Mars robot stopped working during a test Thursday, creating a potentially serious problem. The device is required to collect soil samples for Viking's life search.

Project director James Martin said the preliminary indications are that some sort of electrical problem in a control assembly developed midway through the test. If so, he said there is another control unit that could be used.

The soil sampler was scheduled to begin digging into the red Martian soil next Wednesday. Martin said if the problem is not diagnosed and resolved quickly, the timetable may be changed.

The problem was reported after two puzzling communications difficulties were discovered aboard the spacecraft. Earlier, the robot's marsquake detector was found jammed.

Martin said the three-legged robot continued to radio pictures and scientific data back to Earth, but the concern was that the communications difficulties might worsen and eventually degrade the craft's ability to talk with Earth.

The soil sampler works like a backhoe. It is mounted on the end of a 10-foot retractable arm designed to reach out and collect soil samples to be fed into Viking's three life detection instruments and a chemical analysis device that will give scientists their first word on the chemistry of Mars dirt.

Martin said the unit was ordered to perform 17 different functions during Thursday's test.

"We now believe that only 13 of these 17 commands were properly executed," he said in a special status report from the Viking control center.

He said the sequence that was to be performed called for the soil sampler boom to move from its stowed position. The boom was commanded to retract and go through a sequence which would put its collector head back on lander in parked condition.

"On the 13th step, retracting the head from a 4-inch extension to 2 inches, indications are in that process the boom stopped and exercised what we call a no-go," Martin said.

He said a team of specialists was quickly assembled to investigate the problem.

Although it was nine degrees below zero Fahrenheit when the test occurred, Martin said he did not believe the cold was the problem.

Earlier, a picture returned by Viking showed that a protective shroud was jettisoned as planned from the sampler. Scientists at first thought that meant the device was operable.

One of the radio problems involved one of two receivers aboard the robot spacecraft. It was late in picking up calls from Earth the first day and did not respond at all the second day. Engineers planned to run a series of tests Friday to diagnose the problem.

The second difficulty involved a transmitter Viking uses to talk to its orbiting mothercraft which in turn relays the signals to Earth. The transmitter disobeyed orders from its computers and used a low instead of high power to communicate with the lander.

Ford's jobs bill veto overridden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans joined Democrats Thursday to push a $3.95 billion public works jobs bill through Congress over President Ford's veto.

Ford has cast 53 vetoes since becoming president. The public works bill was the ninth to be overridden.

The final action came in a House vote of 310 to 96, 39 more than the two-thirds needed to override the veto. The Senate Wednesday voted 73 to 24 to override.

Fifteen Republicans in the Senate and 57 in the House sided against the President.

Democrats claim the bill, which now becomes law despite Ford's objections, will create more than 300,000 jobs. Ford called it an election-year "giveaway" which will result in "larger deficits, higher taxes, higher inflation and ultimately higher unemployment."

He said it will create only half the number of jobs claimed by the Democrats and they will not be lasting jobs.

The bill includes $2 billion for public works construction projects ready to start in 90 days, $1.25 billion to help state and local governments hard hit by recession to balance their budgets without having to lay off employes, and $700 million to build water treatment plants in 33 states which claim they were shortchanged in an earlier distribution of pollution-control funds.

Speaker Carl Albert, who seldom speaks on bills, left his chair to tell the House: "The American people — and the Democratic party — have concluded that unemployment is immoral. It is antisocial. It strikes at the heart of American society, the family, ruining lives, destroying dreams, truly a cancer in the body of our nation."

The bill is a cut-down version of a $6.2 billion measure Ford vetoed in February. The House voted to override that veto, but the Senate fell three votes short.

On another measure, however, Congress failed to override Ford's veto of a $3.3 billion military construction bill which would have allowed congressmen a year to review administration proposals to close military bases in their home districts. The Senate voted 51 to 42, eleven votes short of the two-thirds needed to override although the House two hours earlier had overriden by a vote of 270 to 131, two more than necessary.

Tranquilizer labels must carry pregnancy warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration warned doctors Thursday that the nation's most widely used tranquilizers — Valium, Librium, Miltown and others — may cause cleft lip and other birth defects if taken during early pregnancy.

It ordered manufacturers of the drugs to begin carrying warnings to that effect in the form of a statement printed in bold face on the packages.

Citing recent studies, FDA Commissioner Alexander Schmidt said:

"These studies do not demonstrate conclusively that these drugs, taken during early pregnancy, can cause cleft lip or other birth defects.

"But use of these tranquilizers during pregnancy is rarely a matter of urgency, and their use during this time should almost always be avoided.

"The warning label we are now requiring will provide physicians with the information they need to prescribe these drugs safely."

Hoffmann-LaRoche Inc., manufacturer of Valium and Librium, said the FDA in its order ignored two more recent studies which have cleared the tranquilizers of any link to birth defects.

A spokesman said the company does not quarrrel with the FDA's statement that pregnant women may not need tranquilizers, but the agency is "strongly casting aspersions on Valium that are inconsistent with the scientific facts."

Affected are a group of drugs called benzodiazepine, the most popular of which are Valium and Librium.

The warnings will specify that the drugs should not be used during the first three months of pregnancy.

Decoys describe Howe encounter

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Two police decoys who posed as prostitutes testified Thursday that Utah Congressman Allan Howe pulled up beside their parked car in a red-light district and offered to pay 20 for two sexual acts.

Margaret Hamblin and Kathleen Taylor, two young bleached blondes hired as part-time special officers, told identical stories about Howe's arrest to a jury at his sex solicitation trial.

Miss Hamblin, who arrested Howe on the night of June 12 after he followed the decoys' car for several blocks, recited her alleged conversation with the first-term Democrat.

"He said, 'Hi, honey, what are you up to?' she testified. "I said, 'Not much.' He said he was looking for some fun.

"I asked him what he wanted to spend and he said he usually went about $20."

Miss Hamblin spoke in a firm, businesslike voice as she recalled the conversation with the 49-year-old Howe. She stood by her story under a vigorous half-hour cross-examination by defense attorney Dean Mitchell.

Mrs. Taylor, who said she did not talk to Howe herself, recalled exactly the same conversation described by her partner.

She testified Howe was the first person to mention a specific sex act and that he named the $20 price, but she admitted under cross-examination that Miss Hamblin first brought up the subject of money.

"Who was the first and only one to mention a sex act?" asked prosecutor Phillip Palmer.

"Mr. Howe," replied Mrs. Taylor.

On cross-examination, Mitchell asked: "Who first mentioned money?"

"Officer Hamblin."

The two special officers, who have full-time jobs outside the police department and are paid $4.32 an hour for posing as prostitutes during the evening, both appeared in court wearing pantsuits.

The courtroom of City Judge Raymond S. Uno was jammed with more than 100 reporters and spectators while the key prosecution witnesses testified against Howe, who is expected to take the stand later in his own defense.

The jury — a middle-aged housewife, two younger women with office jobs and a retired maintenance supervisor — was finally seated late Wednesday after more than two days of closed door questioning. Under Utah law, four-member juries hear misdemeanor cases in city and justice of the peace courts.

Reagan challenges Ford to debate

Ronald Reagan emerged from seclusion Thursday to challenge President Ford to a debate at the Republican National Convention next month. Ford indicated no such confrontation would take place. In other political news: Reagan received $1.4 million in federal campaign funds, the largest sum the Federal Election Commission ever gave a single candidate in one day . . . Ford, urging tax cuts, antibusing and other legislation, accused Democrats of trying to make the rest of their legislative session "a political test of wills" with the White House. "I do not think the nation will be well served if partisanship is placed ahead of public service during the rest of this session," he said . . . John Connally hinted he would accept the GOP vice presidential nomination if convinced he could contribute to a Republican victory in November . . . Jimmy Carter told top business leaders he would move cautiously on tax reform and his proposed reorganization of the government if elected President.

Death row inmates granted reprieve

Justice Lewis Powell granted 166 death row inmates a reprieve Thursday by delaying issuance of the Supreme Court's July 2 mandate to carry out death sentences in some states. Powell acted on a request of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, which has also asked the court to review again the Florida, Georgia and Texas capital punishment laws before allowing anyone to be executed under them. Short of a special session, the justices cannot do anything about the petition for reconsideration until they come back for the new court term in October.

Waupun prison inmates end rebellion

A rebellion at Waupun State Prison ended early Thursday when 14 hostages held in a "death box" by armed inmates filed out of the main gate into the arms of waiting loved ones. Amid the hugs and tears, one of the men jumped into the air and gave a whoop of relief. Held hostage for almost 14 hours by convicts armed with zip guns, clubs, knives and firebombs, the 14 men were released after the 88 inmates were granted amnesty. A leader of the revolt warned there could be more trouble at the aging, overcrowded facility if conditions that triggered Wednesday's disruption weren't corrected.

Leftists form Beirut council

Moslem leftists Thursday announced formation of a government council to administer their half of Beirut — the first step in the civil war by the Moslems toward the partition of Lebanon. Meantime, Arab League negotiator Hassan Sabri El-Kholy met Christian leaders Pierre Gemayel and Camille Chamoun and announced afterwards their agreement to a one day ceasefire for Friday to allow the Red Cross to evacuate wounded from the besieged Tal Zaatar Palestinian camp.

Uganda imposes gasoline rationing

Uganda Thursday imposed gasoline rationing and banned all private motoring, reserving its last few days of petroleum supplies for government vehicles, doctors and schools. Kenyan newspapers said the reported mutiny in the Ugandan army spread to more units and now involves more than one fourth of President Idi Amin's 12,000-strong military. There was no official confirmation of the mutiny.

Illinois briefs

National Guard cuts manpower

Adjutant Gen. Harold R. Patton announced Thursday the Illinois Army National Guard has reorganized, partly as a result of declining strength levels. Patton said the reorganization lowers the Guard's authorized strength level by 500 members. It also includes the deactivation of the 1st Battalion, 129th Infantry, which had units in Dixon, Freeport, Ottawa, Rock Falls, Rockford and Sycamore. Other units will be assigned to those cities, Patton said. The changes will be effective Oct. 1.

Patton said the Guard had an authorized manpower level of 10,599 before the reorganization but only 8,075 of those positions were filled. He said the reduction in authorized positions will help reduce the gap but, "if our strength does not improve, there is a chance another reorganization will have to be accomplished and such action would probably result in other units being eliminated." He said the reduction in the Guard's strength stems in part from loss of members who signed up for six-year tours at the height of the Vietnam draft around 1970.

State police to get 4% pay hikes

State Police Supt. Dwight Pitman said Thursday state troopers will get pay hikes averaging 4 per cent under a bill signed by Gov. Daniel Walker. A statement Walker issued on the pay increase Thursday said it would average 2.5 per cent, but Pitman said many troopers also will get additional money because of an adjustment in their experience-level, or longevity, pay structure. While the legislature appropriated $684,800 specifically for state police pay hikes and the state police retirement fund, Pitman said, the department also received an estimated $300,000 "to square the longevity system."

He said there have been miscomputations for the pst 18 months in longevity pay, which affected all troopers employed in the department for five to 20 years. Pitman said those men will get the extra money due them. Some state troopers have staged a slowdown in writing speeding tickets in the past few weeks because they wanted larger pay hikes, but Pitman said the number of troopers participating in the slowdown has decreased in the past several days.

2 fail in prison break attempt

Gunfire stopped two inmates who tried to escape from the federal penitentiary at Marion Thursday, prison officials said. Both inmates, Gregory Micklus and William Newman, suffered minor injuries. Fred A Frey, acting warden of the prison, said the two managed to scale an inside perimeter fence at about 1:15 p.m. but gunfire from the prison towers thwarted the attempt. Micklus, Lake Havasu, Ariz., entered the prison Sept. 11, 1975, to serve a 13 to 15 year sentence for armed bank robbery. Newman, Atlanta, entered the prison Oct. 16, 1975, to serve a 21-year sentence for bank robbery, assault, kidnapping and federal firearms act violations.

Metropolitan briefs

Gas leak sends 15 to hospital

Ammonia leaked from a refrigeration system at a food processing plant in Franklin Park Thursday, sending 15 persons, including five firemen, to hospitals. Two of the victims were admitted. The rest were treated and released. The leak, which lasted about 15 minutes before firement shut it off, occurred at the Farmland Food Services meat treatment plant.

Farmland controller Roy Stark said 11 of the company's employes were exposed to the fumes and about 100 persons were evacuated from the plant. Plant operations ceased for the day in the affected area, Stark said.

Copters to battle encephalitis

Helicopters will be used in Leyden Township this week in an effort to wipe out mosquitoes that may be carrying encephalitis, the virus that killed up to 42 Illinois residents last summer. The township's mosquito control program, which began Monday, will employ helicopters to spread larvicides to kill mosquito eggs and a new adulticide — ultra-low volume cold misting — to kill the mature insects, according to Township Supervisor Frank E. Byrne. Nearly 600 cases of the disease, which is transmitted from birds to mosquitos to humans, were reported in the state last year. However, no cases of encephalitis have been reported in the nation this year.

Witwer gets Howlett case

The president of the last Illinois Consitutional Convention has been named to handle a conflict of interest suit against Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett. Atty. Gen. William O. Scott asked Samuel W. Witwer, 67, a Chicago attorney, to undertake the case, which will seek to recover the salary Howlett received from Sun Steel Co., Chicago Heights, while serving on the Illinois Vehicle Recycling Board. The funds, $34,000, represent the amount Howlett was paid from September 1973 until February 1976 when he resigned his $15,000 a year job with Sun Steel.

Special Assistant Atty. Gen. Marvin Burt of Freeport said in a 41-page report issued Tuesday there was a potential conflict of interest during the time Howlett was secretary of state and served on the recycling board while at the same time holding the consultant's position with the steel firm.

Antibias order change asked

Health, Education and Welfare Dept. attorneys will ask U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica to modify his school desegregation enforcenent order, HEW Regional Director Richard Friedman said Thursday. Friedman said Sirica's order to speed up school desegregation cases pending against Chicago, Maywood, Joliet and Cahokia in Illinois, was based on "outdated and erroneous information." He said HEW records "don't square" with Sirica's decision because several of the 46 districts Sirica cited nationwide had either complied with federal guidelines or were involved in HEW desegregation action.

In Illinois, for example, Joliet already has agreed to comply voluntarily with HEW desegregation guidelines, HEW officials said. Sirica ordered HEW to begin enforcement proceedings immediately in the Chicago school district, to complete its investigation of possible violations in the Maywood and Joliet districts, and to determine whether the Cahokia district is still in violation of the guidelines.

Big cut in education grants

$400 million Walker budget veto

by STEVE BROWN

Gov. Daniel Walker increased the amount of spending he has vetoed from the state budget to more than $400 million Thursday, but he said he will not act on major school funding bills until next week.

Walker's cuts included $34.6 million earmarked for spending on education grants, including special education and gifted programs. However, the new budget will give the state $248.4 million for the operation of the Illinois Office of Education, grant programs and teacher retirement funds — an increase of 21 per cent over the last fiscal year.

The major cuts announced Thursday were in the area of capital improvement projects, which are financed through the sale of bonds.

While a complete list of projects affected by the cuts was not available, Walker said the Upper Salt Creek Watershed project in Busse Woods in Ned Brown Forest Preserve, Elk Grove Township, will not be delayed.

WALKER ALSO announced that $516 million will be available for bonds for school construction. The figure is below that proposed by Walker and $263 million less than the construction funds available in fiscal 1976.

The governor, who spent last week at the Democratic National Convention in New York City, said he has not had an opportunity to study fully the other education bills that were approved by the Illinois General Assembly before the spring session ended in June.

Walker said he still is waiting for a complete report from the Illinois Office of Education and his budget director, Leonard Schaeffer, on the impact of the education bills before he decides whether he will sign the bills into law.

The legislature passed one bill sponsored by State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, which makes a number of changes in the school-aid funding formula.

Jaffe said Thursday that most suburban school districts will benefit from the changes, but he admitted that he does not know the full effect of the bill.

Walker said he made the decision to cut $300 million in capital improvement projects after consulting with members of his bond committee. They were convinced that if all the projects were approved, the state would be unable to pay for the work and might lose its prestigious AAA bond rating.

THE GOVERNOR SAID the cuts will mean there definitely will be no tax increase next year. The governor held press conferences in six cities to announce his vetoes. He said the cuts were made because the legislature approved the expenditure of more money than the state has.

"I was also forced to veto $171.6 million in projects because of Republican irresponsibility in the legislature. These projects would have directly helped hundreds of thousands of people," Walker said.

He said the cuts would affect flood control, specialized housing centers, improvement of mental health facilities and homes for troubled children.

In most cases, state agencies will have more money to spend during this fiscal year, which began July 1, than last, but less than the amount approved by the legislature.

The Illinois General Assembly will make its annual attempt to override some of the governor's vetoes when it reconvenes after the November general election.

House panel blocked in try for AT&T wiretap records

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford late Thursday won a temporary court order blocking a House subcommittee from getting "sensitive" American Telephone and Telegraph Co. records of the government's national security wiretaps.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch issued a temporary restraining order and set a hearing next Wednesday on the government's efforts to prevent AT&T from complying with a subcommittee subpoena.

Ford had personally ordered the Justice Dept. to go into court after the administration failed to negotiate a compromise with Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., in which any "sensitive" information would be withheld from the subcommittee.

CIA DIRECTOR George Bush said in an affidavit disclosure of information in the documents would compromise U.S. intelligence sources and methods of "greatest sensitivity."

The documents under subpoena include the FBI's written requests to AT&T since 1969 to set up wiretaps the CIA wanted without first obtaining court orders.

Warrants are required for "domestic security" wiretaps or any surveillance that does not clearly involve foreign agents. The Moss subcommittee wanted to determine whether this rule has been abused.

Bush said some of the surveillance covered by the subpoena "have constituted an extremely sensitive collection effort by the United States, have involved the use of advanced tehcnology and have yielded intelligence of utmost value."

"While on their face the documents may not identify targets of electronic surveillance conducted for foreign intelligence purposes, this information could almost certainly be deduced from the contents of the documents," Bush said.

Dist. 21 adopts $12.8 million budget

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education Thursday adopted a $12.8 million tentative budget for the 1976-77 school year, a 4.6 per cent decrease in expenditures from last year's $13.4 million budget.

The budget reflects cuts of more than $1 million that were approved by the board in March. The board trimmed $500,000 in teacher salaries by eliminating 50 teaching positions, $350,000 in administration costs and $230,000 in materials and supplies.

The budget allots $12,786,364 in expenditures, but it anticipates only $11,793,449 in revenue. The difference will be covered by the district's surplus cash fund, said Jim Gochis, business manager.

"Even with the $1 million in cuts we made, we will still have to use the cash balance to fund programs for next year," Gochis said.

THE EDUCATION fund, which is the largest fund and pays for salaries and programs, will have $9.5 million in expenditures, a drop of 9.5 per cent from last year's $10.5 million. Revenue in the education fund is expected to be $8.9 million.

The decrease in education fund expenditures includes the teacher and administration cuts, but additional money also is allowed for teacher salary increases. Teachers will receive about an 8 per cent cost-of-living and step salary increase, said Supt. Kenneth Gill.

The operation, building and maintenance fund increased by 9.5 per cent with $1,076,246 budgeted as compared to $983,032 last year. Revenue anticipated for this fund is $740,100.

The transportation fund showed a 39.5 per cent increase with $539,150 budgeted as compared to $386,575 in the 1975-76 budget. Revenue projected for this fund is $408,500.

Gill said the large increase in the transportation fund is due mainly to higher transportation costs. The money budgeted also includes $100,000 for contingencies.

DIST. 21 EXPECTS to receive $11.8 million in revenue from taxes, state aid and other sources. The district anticipates receiving $4.37 million in state aid, a 9.5 per cent decrease from last year's $4.83 million.

The budget also includes:

- Bond and interest fund, $1.4 million compared to $1 million last year.
- Retirement fund, $165,000 compared to $200,000 last year.
- Rent fund for $139,000, the same amount as last year.

The budget will be on display until Aug. 26 at the administration center, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling. The public hearing will be Aug. 26 before final approval is made by the board.

Dist. 59 panel to ask music combine

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 committee investigating alternatives to phasing out the elementary school orchestra program will recommend that the district consolidate locations for string lessons to decrease cost and increase enrollment.

"The recommendations we intend to propose are three faceted," said Avis Wold, committee chairman. "They are intended to focus in on increasing effectiveness, increasing enrollment and decreasing the per captia cost."

She said the committee's recommendations include maintaining recruitment for the string program at the fourth-grade level.

The board of education has been considering eliminating the elementary school program in September because of the high cost per pupil but permitting fifth-grade students who started in the string program last year to continue instruction.

School officials have estimated that the cost per student in the orchestra program was about $200 per year compared to about $100 per year for students in the band program. The district had about 175 students enrolled in orchestra during the 1975-76 school year compared to about 800 students enrolled in the band program.

will recommend that the orchestra lessons be given "at a central location" to reduce travel time of string teachers.

She said the committee has "not worked out" the details of transporting the students to the central location because it is waiting for the board to take action on the recommendations.

Mrs. Wold said committee members believe the proposal will encourage students to remain in the program because the larger group will "motivate the students."

By cutting back on the teachers' travel time and promoting the retention of students through the proposal, the committee anticipates reducing the per pupil cost of the program, she said.

The proposal will be presented to the board at its Aug. 9 meeting.

Police seeking accident witness a part time job in the area, according to the recorded conversation.

Police said the youngster or his father should come forward to aid in the investigation of Vargo's death.

They should contact either the traffic or detective division of the police department at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd., or by calling 253-2340.

THE YOUTH IS THE best lead developed so far in finding a witness to the striking of Vargo as he directed traffic around the scene of an injury accident.

Police have persons who can testify to what happened immediately before and immediately after Vargo was run down, but none who have admitted seeing the actual impact.

Timothy Draut, 23, of 746 N. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights, is being held at the county jail in lieu of $200,000 in connection with the death of Vargo, 24.

Draut is charged by police with reckless homicide, driving while intoxicated and lesser charges in the incident.

Dist. 21 names Boyer to fill Lane's board post

Winfield Boyer was apointed to the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education Thursday, becoming the board's only member from Mount Prospect.

Boyer, 35, of 1801 Burning Bush Ln., Mount Prospect, was selected from among seven candidates for the vacancy created by the resignation last month of Jack Lane, who is moving from the district.

A resident of the district for four years, Boyer has served as a vice president of the PTA at Frost School, 1805 Aspen Dr., Mount Prospect. Boyer is an advertising salesman for Teacher Magazine published by MacMillan Professional Magazines.

Boyer said he can contribute to the Dist. 21 Board because of his association with education in his business and his five years of experience as a teacher.

"I hope to contribute fresh, new ideas to the board," Boyer said.

Boyer said not enough money is being spent on education and he favors the proposed tax increase in Dist. 21.

Legal opinion expected on health center funding

A legal opinion is expected within a week on whether unused federal grant funds can be used in constructing a new mental health facility for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

The opinion is needed because a federal construction grant application for the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center was approved, but no money was available in the specific grant program.

The $631,000 available through the grant program all will go to the Garfield Park area of Chicago, which also had its grant request approved and which has a greater need rating based on poverty level.

GEORGE T. SPEES, president of the mental health center board, said the Illinois Mental Health Dept. requested the legal opinion from Michael Houlihan, a federal attorney in Washington D.C. He said it is uncertain whether such funds can be transferred but if they can, unused funds are available.

If the legal opinion forbids transferring funds, Spees said representatives of the center will go to Washington to appeal to Dr. Bertram Brown, head of the National Institute of Mental Health.

The local mental health agency sought $264,000 from the federal grant program to help build a $660,000 permanent facility on two acres of land at the corner of Nerge and Rohlwing roads. The land was donated by Elk Grove Village and SBL corp. The center now operates out of three rented locations in Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg.

The mental health center will be unable to build its new facility if it does not obtain the federal funds. Pledges of $100,000 from each township for the building fund may be withdrawn if the federal grant is not obtained.

Final decisions on the federal grant monies are due in September, after which all unused grant funds will revert back for reallocation by the federal government. Under newly adopted rules, the local mental health center would not be able to qualify for future grant programs because they will be based strictly on poverty level.

Chinatown trip today

Arlington Heights Park District's rest and relaxation program will sponsor a trip to Chicago's Chinatown today.

The adult program will include dinner at Chiam's restaurant and free time to explore the city's Chinese community.

The trip costs $10 per person and includes dinner and bus transportation to and from Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr. The buses will leave the park at 6:30 p.m. and will return about 11 p.m.

Reservations are being taken at the park.

Pair arrested on weapons, soliciting charge

Police have arrested two Arlington Heights residents who allegedly tried to sell a chemical weapon in the village.

Police Wednesday charged Ronald W. Kittner, 18, of 516 W. Clarendon St., and a 16-year-old companion with unlawful use of weapons and soliciting without a permit after the pair allegedly went door-to-door trying to sell "Chemical Lance," a device the pair allegedly claimed could paralyze a person for 20 minutes.

Police said Chemical Lance apparently is produced by Lance Industries Inc. of Lashville, Tenn., and contains a 1 per cent solution of CS gas, a substance used in chemical warfare.

Police said they arrested Kittner and his companion shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday at Bristol Lane and Davis Street after receiving reports of suspicious subjects working out of a van in a residential section of Arlington Heights.

Police said the village previously had rejected a request from the pair for a solicitor's permit.

Kittner and his companion each were released on $1,000 bond and ordered to appear Aug. 13 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Slough's future obscure

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Cattails emerge from the shore.

It is difficult to imagine one of nature's quiet refuges in the Northwest suburbs, a marshy, 27-acre slough in Prospect Heights, being the center of controversy.

It is a tranquil place amid the surrounding development that provides sanctuary for a variety of creatures — fish, muskrat, frogs, fowl and insects.

There is life in the thick undergrowth, cattails and muddy waters. Nature's island in the sprawling suburbs is a place to spend peaceful moments fishing, boating and walking.

The area has been a center of controversy in the past. Disputes have arisen between residents and conservation groups wishing to preserve the slough and developers who would rather see it the focal point of a development.

Efforts are afoot by the Prospect Heights Park Board to preserve the area with the support of those who make their homes on its shores.

"They are tearing down so much today that they don't even realize the importance of leaving some open space in nature," said Barbara Harris, 104 Mandel Ln., and a resident of the newly incorporated community who is concerned about the future of the slough.

The wetland, just west of Elmhurst Road and spreading northward past Willow Road, has special meaning to Mrs. Harris. Her parents have lived the past 30 years just a block away from the slough where she played as a child.

TODAY, Mrs. Harris brings her three children to the slough to observe nature whenever she can.

The southern half of the slough, south of Willow Road and west of Hillside Avenue, is where Mrs. Harris and her childhood friends used to play. It is heavily vegetated and held by a trust at the Maywood Proviso State Bank, Maywood.

The Prospect Heights Park District filed a condemnation suit in 1974 to acquire that part of the slough. The district has received an Illinois Dept. of Conservation grant to help purchase the property if it is acquired.

The suit has been delayed in Cook County Circuit Court and attorneys for the park district are not sure when the case will be resolved.

The northern half of the slough, north of Willow Road and bounded on the west by Hillcrest Drive, is known as Hillcrest Lake and is owned by the Hillcrest Lake Homeowners Assn.

Area residents purchased the 13-acres more than 10 years ago to keep it out of the hands of developers.

The park district has made advances toward purchasing the lake, but it has not filed a condemnation suit for the northern half of the slough.

The park district owns 1.5 acres adjacent to the southern half of the slough off of Elmhurst Road. The Prospect Heights chapter of the Izaak Walton League constructed an $11,000 nature shelter there in 1975.

The league and other community groups, government agencies such as the park district and area residents have continually united to preserve the slough.

IT OFTEN HAS been a battle not only against developers, but against the ravages of sewage overflow, soil erosion and dumping that could endanger the slough's wildlife.

Those with a technical understanding of the land say the slough is a "sponge" that soaks up storm runoff from the land around it rather than allowing the water to flood low-lying areas downstream. The slough is a link in the McDonald Creek tributary system that drains into the Des Plaines River.

But those whose homes border the slough say it is a place of tranquility that provides recreation and outdoor education.

A place for Linda Schwader and Alison Schleiter to relax.

Highway budget slashed $165,000

A revised Wheeling Township Highway Dept. budget, about $165,000 less than originally approved, will be discussed at a public hearing next month.

The drop to the $480,000 budget was prompted by the incorporation of the City of Prospect Heights in May, Highway Comr. Arthur Olsen said.

A $645,263 budget for fiscal 1976 had been approved by the township auditors early this spring, a 4.5 per cent increase from last year's budget.

The $165,000 decrease in the revised budget is a 26 per cent savings, Olsen said. Much of the money saved came from road district salaries, gas and oil, road oil and other road supplies earmarked for work in Prospect Heights.

Prospect Heights, along with Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Mount Prospect and a portion of Des Plaines, will account for half of the $480,000 budget, if approved. The villages will benefit from township road efforts because they pay township road taxes, Olsen said.

The remainder of the budget will be devoted to road work in the township. The highway department already has spent nearly 21 per cent of the budget during the first four months of the fiscal year, Olsen said.

The public hearing on the revised budget is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 31 at township hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy.

Rosemont exhibition center, called the O'Hare International Trade and Exhibition Center.

The center is a modified warehouse building, now owned and operated by the Village of Rosemont. It opened in November 1975 and has shows booked as far ahead as 1983, according to John Monahan, managing director of the exposition center. More than 20 events have already been booked for this year, he said.

"Without boasting, we call ourself the best-located exhibition hall in the world," Monahan said.

IF EXHIBITIONS move from Arlington Park to Rosemont, it will be because of location, not the 3 per cent tax in Arlington Heights, Monahan said.

"Exhibition operators can easily take care of the 3 per cent. They just pass it on to the consumers in the admission charge," he said.

To counter Nixon pardon

Ford, Reagan shift election gears

by STEVE BROWN

A news analysis

Key campaign officials for both President Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan have begun shifting campaign strategies to cope with the Democrats readiness to use Richard Nixon's pardon as a campaign issue.

The shift comes as both sides in the heated GOP effort to gain the presidential nomination are claiming to have enough delegates to win a first ballot victory in Kansas City next month.

At the moment, it appears that neither candidate has the necessary 1,130 delegates to win the nomination on the first round, but Ford may be within 20 to 25 votes, according to a variety of polls.

The shift to compensate for the Nixon pardon and other Watergate related criticism from the Democrats comes on the heels of the Democratic National Convention.

TOP FORD campaign officials had been telling supporters in Illinois and elsewhere that the President was preparing to ask John Connally to be his running mate. However, after Jimmy Carter and U.S. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., commented on Nixon, U.S. Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., emerged as the top choice for the vice presidential spot.

The former Democratic Texas governor had been a Nixon confidant and although he eventually was acquitted, Connally had been indicted for accepting bribes from milk producers, which placed him at least at the periphery of the Watergate scandal.

Baker, the son-in-law of the late U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., gained national notoriety as part of the special Senate committee that investigated Watergate.

Baker's southern background also is seen as a factor in an effort by Ford to save some votes in that region, which is expected to go to the former Georgia governor. Baker, 51, also might counter the youthful image conveyed by Carter, 51, and Mondale, 48.

Reagan backers, meanwhile, quietly are telling many uncommitted delegates that the Carter-Mondale ticket is planing to make Ford's pardon of Nixon an issue.

"This will be an important part of what we tell delegates. They will have to decide if they want that albatross around the neck of the Republican Party for the entire campaign," said State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Schaumburg.

Totten, who is Reagan's Illinois campaign manager, said he expects to win the support of five or six of the dozen uncommitted delegates from the state.

REAGAN BACKERS also are watching with interest the reports that some Ford delegates in Illinois and in other states are planning to abstain from voting on the first round. Some delegates legally are bound to vote for the candidate they were elected to represent on the first ballot, but that obligation is not binding on subsequent ballots.

However, campaign officials on both sides seem to believe the abstention theory will help their candidates if neither receives enough first-ballot votes. Ford officials are expected to stage a series of press conferences in the next two weeks to announce the decision of some delegates to support the President. Reagan officials are planning a similar move showing support for their candidate.

Many observers believe that the 80-to-100 uncommitted delegates will not announce their preferences before the convention and that both candidates will go to the GOP gathering, which begins Aug. 16, without having enough delegates to win the nomination on the first ballot.

Getting a jet set

by DAN BARREIRO

The scene is one the passengers never would see.

For by the time the ground crew of United Airlines would begin their methodical work on the DC-10 that had just arrived, the passengers of Flight 100 from Hawaii and Los Angeles would have left.

They would not see the systematic removall of luggage, the meticulous mechanical checks, the refueling, the washing of the cockpit windows or the careful cleaning of the plane's interior.

It is a cumbersome job, but one that these crews handle as quickly as possible. Each man and woman knows exactly what to do. "It has to be that way," says Allan Huber ramp operations supervisor.

HUBER'S JOB ON this particular plane began well before it hit the O'Hare Airport runway. With the use of a walkie-talkie, he was in constant communication with the planning, which told him what gate the plane would come into and what special mechanical adjustments, if any, would have to be made before the plane could leave again.

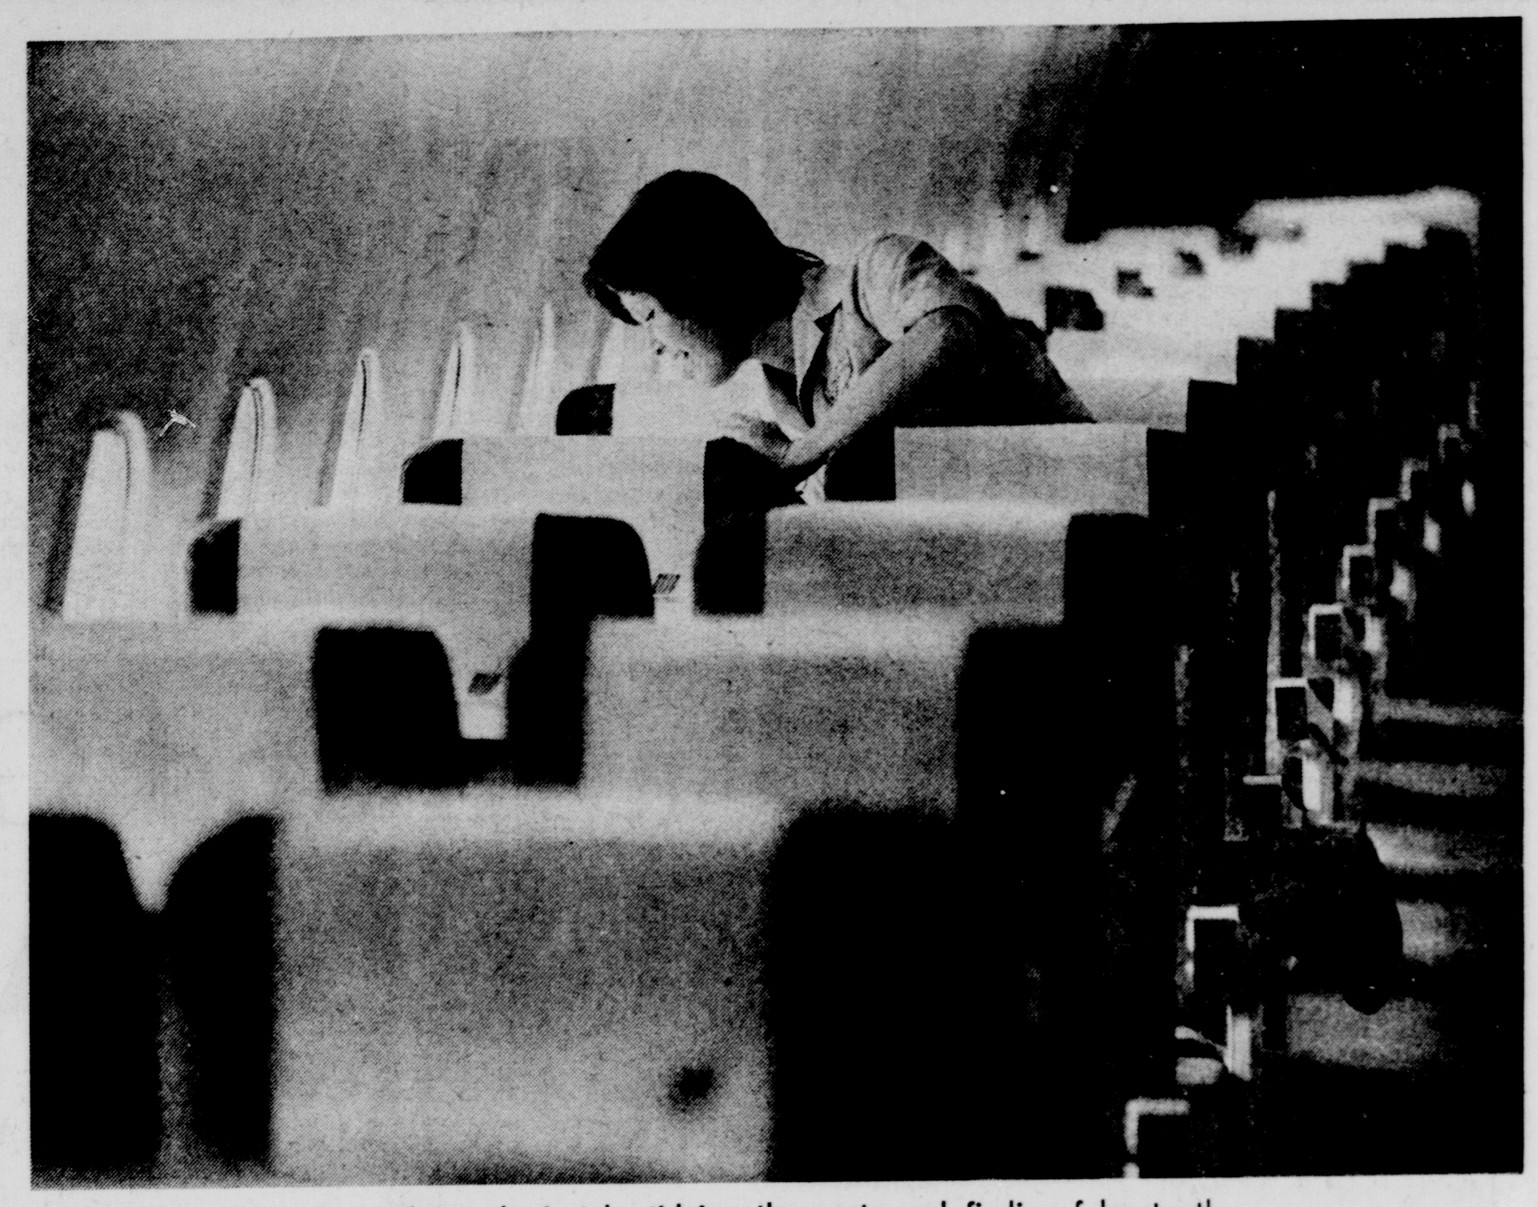

Once the DC-10 had arrived, the first objective, he says, was to get the luggage off. A handful of crew members do this job, headphones protecting them from the ear-splattering drone of the jet engines. A bystander might wonder how these workers communicate. Don't.

AFTER YEARS of working together, a short, shrill whistle or simply a nod of the head lets them know what they should be doing.

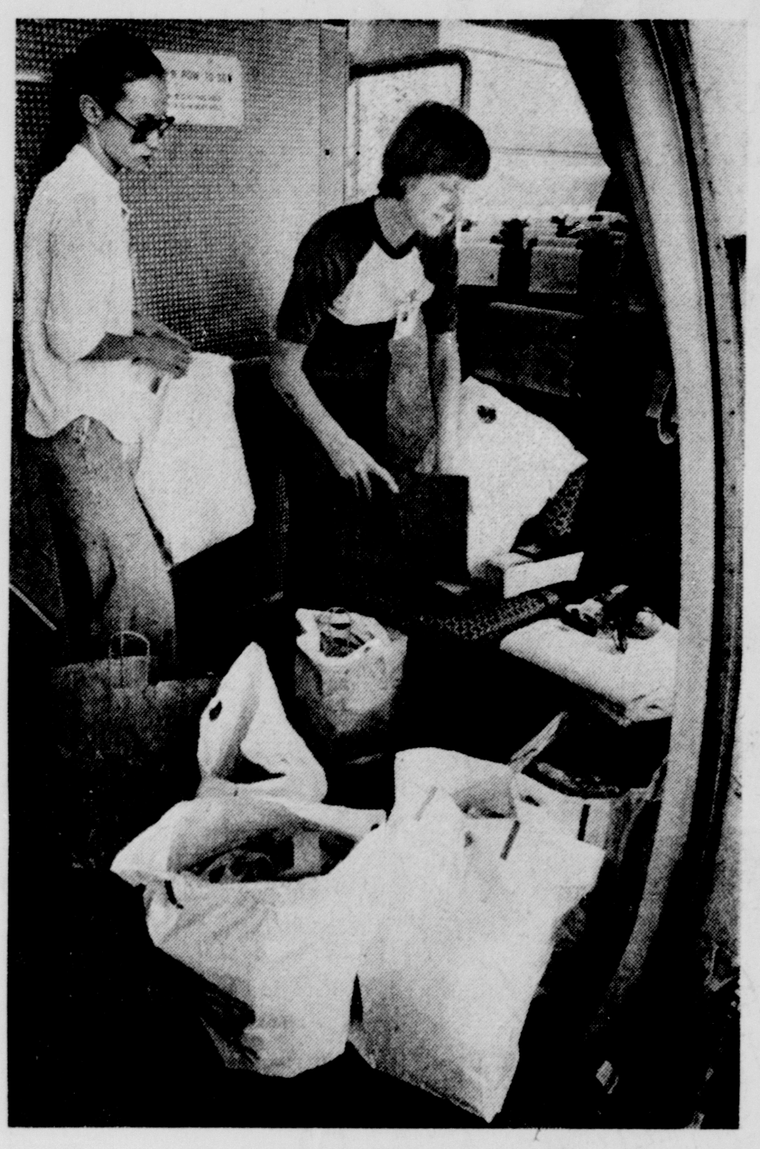

But preparations for this DC-10's departure for Seattle and Canada were not confined to the outside of the plane. A separate cleaning crew worked on tidying the inside.

The job these surprisingly cheerful women must do — sometimes very quickly — includes mundane tasks such as cleaning the seats, vacuuming the floor and emptying ashtrays. It takes them about 45 minutes to clean a jet of this size (275-person capacity).

Their jobs occasionally are spiced up when they find highly unusual items lost in the seats, however. Some persons have even left their false teeth behind.

Sue Christopher's job: tidying the seats and finding false teeth.

Two workers gather debris from the plane.

Medics putting rare blood 'on ice'

by KURT BAER

Doctors at the North Suburban Blood Center, Northbrook, have started putting blood into the deep freeze in order to be able to store rare blood types, almost forever.

The process marks the first time that blood has been frozen in the North suburbs for use by area hospitals.

The frozen cells are stored at a temperature of -80 degrees Centigrade (112 degrees below zero on the Fahrenheit thermometer.)

BY FREEZING BLOOD, doctors are able to keep an inventory of rare blood types for an indefinite time period. Normal unfrozen blood has a shelf life of only 21 days.

Putting blood "on ice" has some other advantages too, says Dr. Takashi Okuno, medical director at North Suburban Blood Center.

Because only the red blood cells are frozen, other potentially incompatible blood components such as antibodies, plasma proteins, white cells and platelets are eliminated from the transfusion process.

Freezing makes possible autologous transfusions in which a person with an unusual blood chemistry can donate blood one day and get his or her own blood back by transfusion if and when it is needed at a later time.

FROZEN BLOOD ALSO helps meet the requirement for fresh blood that is essential in kidney transplants, open-heart operations and other surgical procedures, says Dr. Vincent Ko, a pathologist at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, and an advisor to the North Suburan Blood Center.

"We know that (stored) blood is not equally 'good' from day one to day 21 in certain types of operations," says Ko.

"Recently we have accumulated enough data to show that stored blood does not release oxygen as readily as freshly drawn blood."

A pint of stored blood may have only 70 per cent efficiency, Ko says. The other 30 per cent is lost because of its age. But by freezing blood, doctors can preserve its full effectiveness.

THE FREEZING PROCESS involves two steps.

First all of the plasma is removed from the blood and clear-colored glycerol is added to the red cells as a preservative.

The plasma is used to manufacture other blood components. The red cells and glycerol are put in a plastic freezing bag and stored in a specially constructed low-temperature freezer.

When needed, the frozen blood is thawed at room temperature and washed in a centrifuge with a salt solution to remove all of the glycerol.

The washing process makes frozen blood exceptionally free of hepatitis, says Okuno.

Once thawed and washed, the blood must be transfused within 24 hours.

FROZEN BLOOD CAN help solve seasonal shortages too, Okuno says. "In the summer and at holidays there are blood shortages, while in spring and fall there is often a surplus. By freezing blood we will have better control of our inventory."

The big drawback of frozen blood is its cost. A pint of frozen blood will cost $60 to $70 a pint, twice the price of regular blood.

For this reason, and because frozen blood is not needed in all cases, frozen blood will be a relatively small part of the blood center's total inventory at first, Okuno says.

The freezer, which uses a two-stage compressor to reach sub-zero temperatures, has room for 300 pints.

"EVENTUALLY, FROZEN blood will be 10 to 20 per cent of the 40,000 pints of the blood the center supplies to area hospitals yearly, he predicts.

Frozen blood dates to 1949, when glycerol was first used to protect red cells from freezing damage by A. U. Smith at Mill Hill Laboratories in London, England.

North Suburban Blood Bank's inititation of the process means that area hospitals no longer will have to rely on Chicago sources for frozen blood.

North Suburban supplies blood to Alexian Brothers, Holy Family, Lutheran General, Northwest Community, Evanston, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Northwest, Resurrection and St. Francis hospitals.

The way we see it

Pardon is valid issue

Some leaders in both political parties have suggested that President Gerald R. Ford's pardon of former President Nixon should not become an issue in the 1976 campaign.

We disagree. It is a question that should be discussed, although the disavowals coming from the camp of Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter sound more like a subtle tactic to keep the issue alive than a serious declaration of intent.

The Nixon pardon was one of the first — and remains one of the most controversial — decisions made by President Ford since taking office.

The wisdom of Ford's action is part of his record in office. He should be tested by his party's delegates, and by the American public, on his full record whether that involves pleasant topics or those we would rather forget.

Ford cannot be blamed for the sins of Watergate, but he did foreclose an opportunity to bring out the full truth behind the scandal and blocked the uniform application of justice. Whether he was right or wrong in that decision is a valid question for the voters.

Carter, indeed, has stated that he does not plan to make the Nixon pardon an issue in the campaign though he referred to it obliquely in his acceptance speech. Carter also has told reporters he probably would not have pardoned Nixon if he had been President.

U.S. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, Carter's running mate, has not been reluctant to bring Nixon and the itinerant sins of Watergate into the campaign; he raised the issue in blunt terms during his acceptance speech.

Ford clearly wants a "high level" campaign as he told Carter the morning after the former Georgia governor was nominated. But no sooner had the Democrats picked Carter and Mondale than the Republican National Committee began bombarding the nation's press with particularly negative articles about Carter's stewardship as governor of Georgia. The committee indicated it thought this information was important and promised more Carter "backgrounders" in the future.

Indeed, the records of Carter and Mondale should be examined critically by the Republicans, by the press and by the public.

There should be no sacred cows in this election process, whether they be the pardon of a former President or the voting record of a senator.

What is important is that the issues be raised thoughtfully and responsibly.

Elk Grove to lose a dedicated trustee

Nanci Vanderweel, a six-year member of the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees, surprised the community last week with her announcement that she will not seek a third term on the board next spring.

Her departure will be a loss to the village, which has benefited from her energy, her devotion and hard work.

Mrs. Vanderweel, a 13-year resident of the village, was elected to the board for a two-year term in 1971 and successfully sought a four-year term in 1973. During her tenure on the board, she has maintained regular office hours in the village hall, without pay, and consistently worked for the implementation of programs that benefit all residents.

Particularly worthy of note is Mrs. Vanderweel's contribution to the village blood assurance program, which she has coordinated and watched over since its inception. In addition, she has been instrumental in planning the village's 20th birthday celebration and its Bicentennial festivities.

Her concerns have ranged from stray dogs to senior citizen housing to transportation — yet with all of her involvement she has managed to remain within the parameters set for a trustee and hasn't attempted to take over the role of the village administration.

If her decision holds firm, the people of Elk Grove Village will lose a dedicated trustee in April.

Voter support clear

We are encouraged by statements last week of Edward Fabish, Buffalo Grove village president, who said he believes a municipal fire department can be formed in Buffalo Grove within a year.

Because Buffalo Grove is currently served by three fire districts, the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District and the Long Grove and Vernon Township fire districts, the issue is complex, but we believe not so complex that it cannot be solved by reasonable public officials. Long Grove officials, already have said they favor elimination of Buffalo Grove from their service area.

In the wake of approval of the referendum to increase taxes of all residents in the rural district to pay for paramedic and ambulance service, it seems an opportune time for Buffalo Grove to begin an earnest effort to pull away from the district.

As Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said after the successful tax increase referendum last week, "The people of Buffalo Grove want the paramedic program in a big way."

We believe they also want and deserve uniform municipal fire services from a single department and will be willing to pay for it.

Families strong 'backbone of our democracy'

I just read with interest the article Pro/Con - Child rearing - how good or bad, in Monday, July 19th's paper. Under the question, "What about the mother who wants a career?" Dr. Benjamin Spock's statement of "I think also that the government should pay the parent who stays home," made me chuckle to myself.

Motherhood must be declared as a fulltime career. Those mothers who are out working, are merely "moonlighting." They deserve deep appreciation from their families, because nine times out of 10 they are having to squeeze their "homework" and extra mothering in, too.

Tom Braen's statement, "(My wife) certainly was a working mother. Through the first two she worked the whole time." May I ask, "Did your wife have professional help with the housekeeping and child care, Tom?" If not, I bet she was working overtime at home, when she was there. To make that statement, was an oversight of the long extra hours, she must have put in.

Since I am a fulltime mother of seven, it would be quite interesting to find just how much I could ever be paid for 24 hour, exclusive services, for the past 18 years. Up to now, I fill in annual wage with a big zero! It sure would be amusing if I ever was to get paid. I wonder would it be retroactive back all 18 years or would it have to begin now?

If retroactive, I am afraid, many fulltime mothers would become millionaires.

Families are the backbone of our democracy, they formulate the individual personality and stand as the foundation of America. America will remain strong, only, if we continue to favor the need for families in the hands of our fulltime moms. Our only payment is invested in our children, who will become our future adults.

Make vandals responsible for their actions

I would like to comment on the comments (July 14) on the article "vandal law" in The Herald July 8.

I believe the law would cut down on vandalism but not as much as a law that would make the vandals responsible for their actions. People are always harassing parents to control, control, control, then all of a sudden at 18, 21, whenever the kids are on their own, and wow. I don't believe parents should have to control so much what goes on outside as well as inside the home. We certainly have rules and/or guidelines both places but put the policing where it should be.

I see nothing wrong with vandals, big or small, working out their fines. Doing something positive for the community — jobs people are now getting paid good sums for or that are just not getting done at all.

It would be a great way to "get even," so to speak, or "get attention" from one's parents by getting them to fork over for one's trespasses. Not necessarily damages from minors with no discipline, neglect and/or the like. More I feel from boredom. Who knows that given a choice of duties, it may develop into a permanent job and turn the vandal into a real plus. Or don't we think in terms of positives?

Hospital's free water called too generous

In view of the fact the Village of Elk Grove Village is headed for financial problems in the next fiscal year, it seems to be rather foolish to let Alexian Brothers Medical Center get their water free! They are a business, and no other business gets free water. Holy Family and Lutheran General Hospitals get no such gracious gifts from their communities, why should Alexian Brothers?

I can remember when the village board "gave" them their first year's water free! It was to help them "get started" . . . well, they have been "started" for 10 years now! Let's stop this generous gift of over $17,000 per year and charge the whole hospital for their water! They don't give hospital care free, do they?

Detour planning impressive

I'd like to compliment the Village of Arlington Heights on their excellent preparation for the road construction about to start on Euclid in front of Arlington High School. I was very impressed by the simple and clear detour which was marked by a large sign on July 19.

I drive to work in Evanston every day. The normal route I follow takes me straight down Euclid (which eventually turns into Lake) to Sheridan Road. One day last week I was coming home from work and the road was closed for repairs on the railroad tracks just east of Pfingsten Road. There were no warning signs and worst of all no detour mapped out. I was on top of the roadblock with no place to go. There was one small detour sign instructing drivers to turn right. I turned right (following another car bearing an Arlington Heights sticker, whose driver seemed equally as bewildered) and ended up getting lost in the twisting street. I finally had to dig a map out and plot my own detour.

Being a commuter is new to me and I've learned to really appreciate small things like being forwarned about a detour. I hope commuters who aren't familiar with Arlington Heights appreciate the well marked detour as much as I do.

Why did it take a Bicentennial?

Congratulations to Arlington Park District and to all those who did an excellent job in planning and working so hard for the Bicentennial events at Recreation Park.

Our whole family of seven spent a most enjoyable weekend right here in Arlington Heights! On Friday we took advantage of the excellent carnival. It was a joy to watch the square dances that took place in the tennis courts that evening. People young and old were walking around enjoying the park, the carnival and each other.

On Saturday my 16-year-old son spent much of the day at the park. When he came home he announced that he had seen the "best Bicentennial dance entertainment" that afternoon in the bandstand. Why he asked, did it take a Bicentennial for Arlington to have something like this?

On Saturday night we all enjoyed a terrific program under the stars of a group who came from Deerfield who sang and entertained. It was a joy to see the very young and our dear senior citizens enjoying our fine park and the entertainment. Delores Eiler put on a fine show for all the young and old to enjoy.

ON SUNDAY WE were very impressed with the Bicentennial service of ecumenical worship. To think that all these different religions went together and we all became one. To have a United Service out under God's sunny blue sky was something to see. Two hundred choir members from many different religions under the fine direction of Mr. Gordon Palmer was a sight to see and to hear them sing "We Shall Overcome," and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was just beyond all expectations. I had tears running down my cheeks it was so beautiful. The park was crowded again with the young and with our dear senior citizens once again feeling togetherness.

The man in front of me was dressed like Abraham Lincoln, and his two small children were dressed from that era also. Alongside them they had a picnic basket filled with goodies for their picnic after the service. How long has it been since we all packed a picnic lunch and went on a picnic with our children and enjoyed each other?

On Sunday afternoon we once again enjoyed a fine show in the band stand at Recreation Park put on by Brigham Young University. These young people were most entertaining and we all enjoyed it.

Words of praise

On behalf of the Elk Grove Village Lions Club, I would like to express our sincere thanks to The Herald for providing us with excellent publicity coverage this past year as in previous years. Jerry Thomas, Tom Von Malder and their staffs were very cooperative in presenting information of our activities to the public.

We had many planned activities throughout the past year some of which were candy day, Halloween parties, super sale and finally our most recent 4-day Bicentennial Independence Day celebration. The response we receive from our citizens in support of our fund raising activities is most gratifying. All proceeds are used for Lions projects directed towards the community and in aiding the blind and visually handicapped.

Thanks again, everyone, for your help and generous support. Without it we could not hope to attain the goals we set for ourselves.

Bottled water with deed?

After reading a considerable number of articles concerning our severe water problems here in Arlington Heights and the threats by our officials as to how we citizens will be dealt with legally if we are caught sprinkling on the wrong day, it was interesting to note that the village trustees just approved another apartment project with Wallach Builders to construct 19 apartment buildings or 56 units.

In case it hasn't occurred to our village officials, it might be wise to put a moratorium on home, condominium and apartment building until they can figure out how to supply the present population with water.

Perhaps if the village officials persist with the over-building which has caused our problems with water shortages and sewer problems, they could request builders to supply Hinckley-Schmidt water to each of their customers when they sign leases or mortgage papers.

BIG BUSINESS

"That's not what I meant when I said 'bury it,' Hollenbach!"

Book offers guidance

Condo buyers warned of pitfalls

Ben and Elaine bought a condominium apartment in a 20-year-old high-rise complex. Both the purchase price and the monthly maintenance costs suited their fairly tight budget, and the location was very desirable. But they didn't do their homework.

Shortly after moving in, a meeting was called of the individual owners. The two elevators in the building had outlived their usefulness and would have to be replaced. The bids came in from the contractors. The tab was to be $125,000, and it was time for everyone — Ben and Elaine included — to ante up his fair share.

Shocked, they learned too late that there had been no reserve established in the maintenance fund to provide for such costly replacements. Now, even though they were brand-new occupants and had barely even used the elevators, they would either have to come up with a big chunk of cash, or substantially increase their monthly payments, or try to sell and move out.

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

This is one of the case histories related in a new book, "Warning: Condominium Ownership May Be Dangerous to Your Health, Wealth and Peace of Mind," by real estate professional Vincent Hubin (Dow Jones-Irwin, $9.95). While the title may seem to be a scare tactic, the book is not. It's a thorough guide to the pitfalls and problems that any condominium apartment owner or buyer should be aware of.

THE AUTHOR'S premise is that if you can recognize the problems in advance, you can avoid frustrations. Among the many possible problems that the owner might face, Hubin offers sound guidance on such things as how to determine the real costs of ownership; insurance problems; analyzing monthly expenses; the importance of having good management, and the twists and turns of recreational facility agreements.

He includes an extensive checklist for buyers, and a lengthy glossary of most terms you'll have to wrestle with when you start perusing the condominium apartment contracts.

One word of warning about Hubin's otherwise worthy warnings: almost a full third of the book is devoted to appendices, which contain replicas of the common documents used in condominium apartment transactions — the general description, the purchase agreement, the deed, the bylaws and the mortgage papers. They're all there in full, legalese glory and in the customary small print.

While these documents are worthy of inclusion in the book, and certainly worthy of your reading, be well aware that they may differ vastly from actual documents you may be asked to sign. Don't rely on these replicas in entering into your own transaction. While they can give you a general idea of what you'll be confronted with, the specific clauses can vary significantly from deal to deal.

There is no such thing as a "standard" condominium apartment contract, or bylaws, or deed, or mortgage. If you sign any such papers without good legal counsel, you do so at your own risk. Hubin says so. And I say so. But be on guard for the salesman who doesn't say so.

Late rally forces stocks up

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late rally allowed prices to close irregularly higher Thursday in sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange prior to the Federal Reserve Board's report on the nation's money supply.

Released just after the market closed, the report showed that the nation's basic money supply decreased by $200 million in the latest reporting week. Investors had been concerned the Fed might tighten credit — causing higher interest rates — following a $2.6 billion increase the week before.

Anticipating the report, some investors came off the sidelines for late buying. As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, off about two points earlier, gained 1.64 points to 991.08.

THE BLUE-CHIP average, representing a quarter of the value of all NYSE stocks, gained 1.15 points Wednesday, snapping six consecutive losses since it reached a 41-month high of 1,011.21 on July 12.

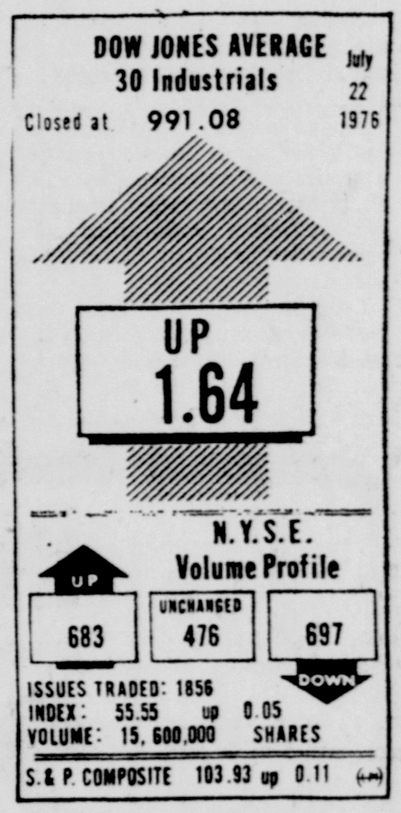

Other averages also rallied toward the close. The NYSE common stock index gained 0.05 to 55.55 and the average price of a NYSE common share increased by three cents.

Declines edged advances, 697 to 683, among 1,856 issues crossing the tape. There were 476 unchanged issues.

Standard & Poor's new 500 stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 0.11 to 103.93.

Volume totaled 15,600,000 shares, down from the 18,350,000 traded Wednesday. 33-7/8 and Schering-Plough 1¾ to 52. Squibb, which reported little change in earnings, dropped 1 to 29¾.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by two cents. Volume totaled 1,770,000 shares, compared with 2,180,000 traded Wednesday.

Business briefs

Ford's help asked in cannery strike

The president of the nation's largest farm organization Thursday asked President Ford to intervene in the strike by 30,000 workers at California canneries. Allan Grant, president of the Park Ridge-based American Farm Bureau Federation, sent the request in a telegram to the President. The telegram said, "On behalf of the 2.5 million farm bureau member families, I earnestly request that you invoke your presidential powers under the Labor Management Relations Act to bring an early settlement of the strike at California canneries which process 60 per cent of the nation's fruits and vegetables." Grant also said the impact of the strike is intensified by drought conditions which have reduced the vegetable, apple and cherry crops in other areas of the country.

Miners' strike spreads

The number of striking miners mounted to more than 20,000 in the rich West Virginia coal fields Thursday. Roving pickets, angered over a federal court fine, spread the West Virginia coal mine strike into the two richest producing regions in the United Mine Workers' domain. In Salem, Ore., a judge refused to order striking state grain inspectors back to work. The 68 inspectors have been on strike since Tuesday and their walkout left cargo ships half filled and threatened Oregon's record 60 million bushel wheat crop.

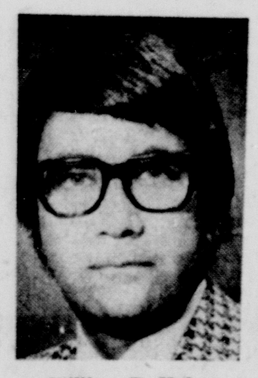

Nuclear power plant site?

Commonwealth Edison has picked up an option on Illinois land across the Mississippi River from Burlington, Iowa, for consideration as the possible site of a third nucelar power generating station along the river. Company officials confirmed the utility had purchased options on the land in Henderson County, Illinois.

Trading of mutual funds gaining in popularity

by LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many pension planners are beginning to trade mutual fund shares much in the same way as they trade portfolio stocks and bonds, a California mutual fund magnate reports.

"It used to be that pension trustees would buy shares of a mutual fund and leave all the investment decisions up to the manager, nor did they shift very much from one fund to another. Now, all that is changed," said Henry L. Jamieson, chairman of the Franklin Group of Funds, San Mateo, Calif.

Jamieson said the high volatility of the stock market in the past six years and the increasing responsibility put on pension fund managers by the pension reform act of 1974 caused them to be much more sensitive to volatile trends in a mutual fund's performance.

"THE PENSION managers were put under great pressure to protect their assets in a bear market and to take full advantage of a bull market," he said. To do this with portfolio stocks and bonds takes a great many separate decisions. To do it by turning over different types of mutual fund shares requires fewer decisions, much less cost and considerably less risk, Jamieson said.

"Timing is the critical issue, especially when the stock market turns bearish," he said. "To get out of a portfolio of 40 separate stocks quickly without serious loss is a time-consuming and difficult operation; it may prove impossible. But if the stocks are held mainly in a mutual fund, shifting from one type of fund to another may accomplish the goal quickly and relatively safely and at a great saving in cost."

Jamieson quoted Frank G. Smathers, head of a Long Beach, Calif., pension fund management firm, as saying the mutual fund trading approach had enabled him to maintain a much more consistent performance record for pension funds than by dealing with them on the traditional portfolio mix of half bonds and half separate stock issues.

JAMIESON WARNED, however, that the mutual fund trading approach must not be taken as a guarantee of consistent performance. It depends on sound judgment as much as any other investment decision but it can be quick as well as cheap. Naturally, he said, this rapid trading of fund shares influences the investment decisions of mutual fund managers.

But one convenient and profitable investment opportunity in mutual funds is about to be closed. The Senate apparently is on the verge of passing the House approved bill to close tax loopholes in the so-called exchange mutual funds. The distinctive feature of the exchange fund is that it allows the investor to exchange securities in which he has a taxable capital gain for equivalent portfolio shares in a mutual fund and thus defer or possibly avoid the capital gains tax.

Congress thought it had closed this tax loophole in 1966 but authorities in several states later ruled the legislation closing it did not apply to limited partnerships. That resulted in the creation of some new exchange mutual funds organized on a limited partnership basis. The bill the House has passed and which now is pending in the senate would put a stop to that. However, the bill would give shareholders in four existing funds of this type 90 days of grace to exchange up to $100 million worth of securities in each fund without paying the capital gains tax.

Illinois' fast growth pace slows: report

Illinois grew faster economically than most states during the entire post-war period but the pace slowed substantially since 1967, according to a recent report sponsored by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

A. James Heins, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, conducted the study for the chamber.

Study results announced by chamber president Lester Brann Jr., indicate climate is an important factor in economic growth.

"States with warm, stable temperatures grew at a faster pace than states with cool, variable temperatures," Brann said.

State income grew at an annual rate of 5.7 per cent for the years 1947-1967 increasing to 7.9 per cent since 1967. Increased size of government since 1967, particularly welfare programs, is cited as one reason for lower-than-expected economic development in Illinois. Business and labor groups should strive to restrict increased government activities, the study said.

Ford tabs minister for consumer post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said Thursday he will nominate Thaddeus A. Garrett Jr., 26, an ordained minister, to serve on the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Garrett was chosen to serve a seven-year term retroactive to last October and would succeed Richard Simpson, whose term expired.

Garrett, a minister in the A.M.E. Zion Methodist Church with a doctor of divinity degree from Howard University, joined Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's staff after serving as an adviser to Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.

Winnie the Pooh and Piglet, too

Today

Mike Klein's people

On guard Jimmy, Jerry and Ronnie! Winnie the Pooh is running for President of the United States.

And that's no Pooh-litical bunk. Old Pooh bear himself, darling of the forests, has made tracks into the tough spectrum of taxation with representation.

Rather, he's made bear tracks back into the world of Pooh-litics.

The most intriguing secret from 1972's elections is that the Children's Party, which controls the greatest number of votes nationwide, actually elected Pooh of Hundred Acre Woods by an overwhelming majority.

BUT ALL THE ballots naming Pooh were accidentally dropped into a large vat of honey, which made them impossible to count. Pooh remained home in his woods these past four years and watched over all the other little animals.

You probably have not heard very much about Winnie the Pooh's candidacy. His campaign is being operated on a somewhat smaller scale than the mammoth production being staged by Jimmy Grits of Georgia.

Winnie's candidacy came to me during a Pooh-tiful dream after I had spent one recent evening doodling in my Winnie the Pooh coloring book.

I rushed into the office the next morning and called Hundred Acre Woods. "Hello," I said in a rush, "I've got to speak with Winnie the Pooh."

THERE WAS A SHORT silence and then a young woman giggled. "Oh . . . well, I don't think he's here now," she said. "Let me check."

True to her word, Winnie the Pooh had gone into a secluded powwow with vice presidential candidate Piglet, press secretary Tigger, head advisor Christopher Robin, head campaign manager Eeyore and chief of staff Kanga.

I was so disappointed that I cried big tears into my morning cup of honey. But then I decided to settle for Jeff Brein, Winnie the Pooh's West Coast campaign manager.

"Pooh could give you a call, but like any candidate, he's very busy," said Jeff, who also freelances in the Disneyland Dept.

"Pooh is huddled with his advisors, appraising the campaign, watching the Republicans and Democrats and assessing his play in the upcoming election," Jeff said. "He'll be meeting with children all across the country."

WINNIE THE POOH will soon embark on whirlwind trips to spread the news of his candidacy.

Pooh will appear Aug. 14 in Kansas City, just two days before Republicans begin their national extravaganza. "We're expecting about 10,000 children," Jeff said.

Winnie's staff has planned a big "Pooh for President" sendoff Sept. 25 in Chicago.

Pooh will disembark from Union Station on a cross - country, whistle stop train tour, very similar to the tours made by Abraham Lincoln, another woodsman like Pooh.

THE ONLY DIFFERENCE is that Abe's staff did not plan to campaign at more than 300 Sears stores.

Pooh will pass out Pooh records, Pooh buttons and Pooh coloring books. Later in the campaign, Pooh will have his own jet, the "Air Pooh One."

At each campaign stop, Pooh will tell children about the election process. Jeff said that Pooh will teach the children how presidents are nominated and what they do after entering the White House.

"Pooh for President" will reach a fever pitch with his formal nomination during Oct. 22-24 festivities at Disneyland and Walt Disney World.

All his staff insist that Pooh can win by a large margin in November. They do not view Jimmy or Jerry or Ronnie as any threat to the Children's Party standard bearer.

"WINNIE TOTALLY represents children," Jeff said. "Winnie feels he'll be able to do things the other candidates have not pledged."

Pooh's reforms will include tricycles in every garage, "hunny" in every pot, no more afternoon naps and ice cream sundaes every Monday.

He also has promised to "lick" the high price of ice cream, replace light bulbs with lightning bugs, remove taxes on toys and allow snacks after school.

Best of all, Winnie will institute a Kids' Day once he becomes President Pooh.

The platform has been greeted with tremendous Pooh-litical acclaim. "He'll carry Hundred Acre Woods overwhelmingly," Jeff said. Pooh has a guaranteed vote from Rabbit, the carrot cultivator.

BUT IT'S DIFFICULT to predict just how many votes Pooh will receive from Hundred Acre Woods.

"That's because you've got heffalumps and woozles living there," Jeff said of the notorious honey stealers.

"But Pooh is definitely after the heffalump and woozle vote," Jeff said. He admitted, however, that "Pooh sometimes has bad dreams about them."

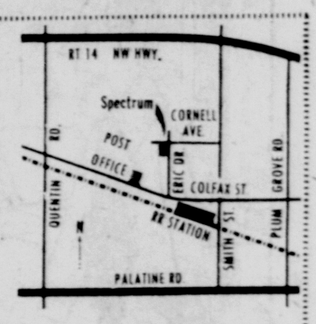

As well Pooh should, you find heffalumps and woozles lurking around even outside Hundred Acre Woods.

If memory serves me correct, this country's voters sent heffalumps and woozles into the White House four years ago. They were caught with sticky fingers after raiding the honey pots.

But you can bet your last bear track that all those shenanigans never would have occurred under President Winnie the Pooh. And that's no Pooh-litical bunk!

The Golddiggers performing their show in the Blue Max.

Golddiggers

They're no longer just Dean's girls

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Dean Martin's beautiful, luscious showgirls, the Golddiggers, are out to change their image — somewhat. It's not that they want to give up the sex symbol status. That definitely helps. But they want to be recognized for their vocal talents too.

"When the Golddiggers started out nine years ago, they were just pretty girls who hung around Dean. But we like to consider ourselves talented girls who just happen to be attractive. We all feel we are artists," said Patti Pivarnik, captain of the Golddiggers, who is a veteran of the present company at three and a half years.

Touring the nightclub circuit, the current six Golddiggers are on stage through July 31 in the Blue Max of the Regency Hyatt O'Hare. And just to make sure audiences know where they stand, they open the show with a rousing rendition of "I Am Woman."

Golddigger Patti Pivarnik

Pretty strong stuff for the Golddiggers?

"I'm not sure it was added for that reason. It was first tried in Vegas about two and a half years ago. It was so different for the Golddiggers, it went over really well. So we've kept it," said Patti.

The singing/dancing group was the brainstorm of producer Greg Garrison, who was looking for a summer replacement show for Dean Martin.

He decided to gear the entire show around the Golddigger era — the '30s and '40s. And the girls were expected to look and act the part.

Throughout the first hardcore onslaught of women's liberation, it was common for femininists to protest and even burn their bras in front of the NBC studios. They felt the Golddiggers were chauvinistic-inspired.

"IT WASN'T THAT we actually went along with it all. All they think we do is laugh, smile and have a good time," said Patti.

Now the Golddiggers are on their own and, though for nostalgia's sake they devote part of the show to their original material they back it up with show tunes, love ballads and even light rock.

On this last trek they've been on the road 14 weeks traveling with 33 pieces of luggage among them and one huge costume box called a coffin.

"We're like a family. We eat, sleep and work together. We get a month off twice a year to be normal people," said Patti.

A short hiatus is coming up in the next month, and Patti is looking forward to returning home to Cincinnati, Ohio.

"I'm tired. I want to live a normal existence for awhile."

But then Patti isn't sorry she quit college her junior year to become a Golddigger. The experience is what counts.

She auditioned on a lark, didn't even think she stood a chance because of her height. She's only five-foot-three, the shortest in the group. But out of a total of 1000 who auditioned almost four years ago, 18 finalists were sent to California for a round of rehearsals. Patti was one of them. And she survived that final cutoff.

SOON AFTER THEY opened at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

"A kid in college from Cincinnati opening shows for Petula Clark and David Steinberg? I was absolutely terrified. And you should have seen the reviews," said Patti.

"They said we were eight girls not knowing what we were doing or where we were going. But then we didn't have any experience."

When Patti auditioned, most of the Golddiggers were 20 or under. Now the girls range in age from 22 to 28, and for once there are more brunettes than blonds — another factor in seeking variety.

And as far as being called Dean's girls, Patti isn't about to knock it. "We couldn't go without it. We need the publicity and exposure."

Though the Golddiggers are not seen on television regularly they will be doing three specials with Dean this fall — but not his roasts.

"We're left out in the cold there."

And as far as that sexy, available image goes, they still hesitate to publicize that some of them are married, even though there is little worry over stage-door johnnies. Their drummer and conductor who travel with them double as bouncers.

"We're handled with kid gloves," admits Patti. And that includes fan mail.

"We see only the good letters from people who want pictures and enjoyed the show. The bad ones they just don't show us."

Jimmy Carter books flood the market

by STEVE BROWN
(Herald political writer)

In the wake of Jimmy Carter's Presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention last week, a raft of paperback books about the 51-year-old Southerner are hitting the bookstands.

Some will scratch their heads and say what more can be said about the former Georgia governor?

The answer is, not much. But there are always people a little behind the news who are still asking who this man Jimmy Carter is. Also, Carter is a hot number. There is some quick money to be made.

Two books on Carter are already out, somewhat updating an autobiography Carter wrote in 1975 as part of his early Presidential game plan.

Boston Globe reporter Robert Turner took the easy way out in "I'll Never Lie to You - Jimmy Carter in His Own Words," Ballantine Books.

TURNER MERELY compiled a series of Carter quotations into a 167-page volume. There is no analysis or explanation about the effort.

The book is rather interesting though because the author has found a few contradictory comments made by the man who spouses the Washingtonian "I can never tell a lie" slogan.

Turner has found a few comparable quotations, but the book contains myriad comments from Carter that represent only a single statement on a given topic. Turner has generally failed to allow the reader to determine whether Carter has lied by not including several quotations on the same subject.

In one of the few instances in which Turner does use multiple quotations Carter appears to have wavered on a position.

AN EXAMPLE of Carter's comments:

"I have never asked for endorsements.

"My whole effort is to go directly to the people themselves. If groups endorse me — or don't endorse me — that's OK" - Dec. 9, 1975, Medford, Mass., college address.

Carter calling Sen. Birch Bayh on the telephone. . .

"I need your help. I'd like for you to join in our campaign" - April 27, 1976, according to Bayh.

Asked about his statement, the day after his private phone call to Bayh, that he had "never gone to anyone yet and asked them to endorse me. . ."

"My point was that I have never depended on endorsements to put me in office."

"The request to Bayh was "for his support and confidence — we did not talk about endorsement at that time." - May 3, Fort Wayne press conference.

A SECOND BOOK also released in time for last week's Carter love feast at Madison Square Garden was written by freelancer Leslie Wheeler, whose credentials include being the granddaughter of a late Montana senator and a person who is familiar with the "political milieu," whatever that is suposed to mean.

The Wheeler book, "Jimmy Who?" Barron's Publishing Co., is a biography of the candidate that attempts to trace Carter's life from rural youth to naval officer to politician.

The reader learns such fascinating trivia as Carter's father calling his son "Hot," short for hotstuff.

Like Turner, Wheeler relates much of the same information that is found in Carter's autobiography, "Why Not the Best?" Both Turner and Wheeler attempt to update their books with information about Carter's primary campaign efforts.

THE SIMILARITY between the Wheeler and Turner books is fascinating, despite the fact that the two authors utilize different styles in telling their stories.

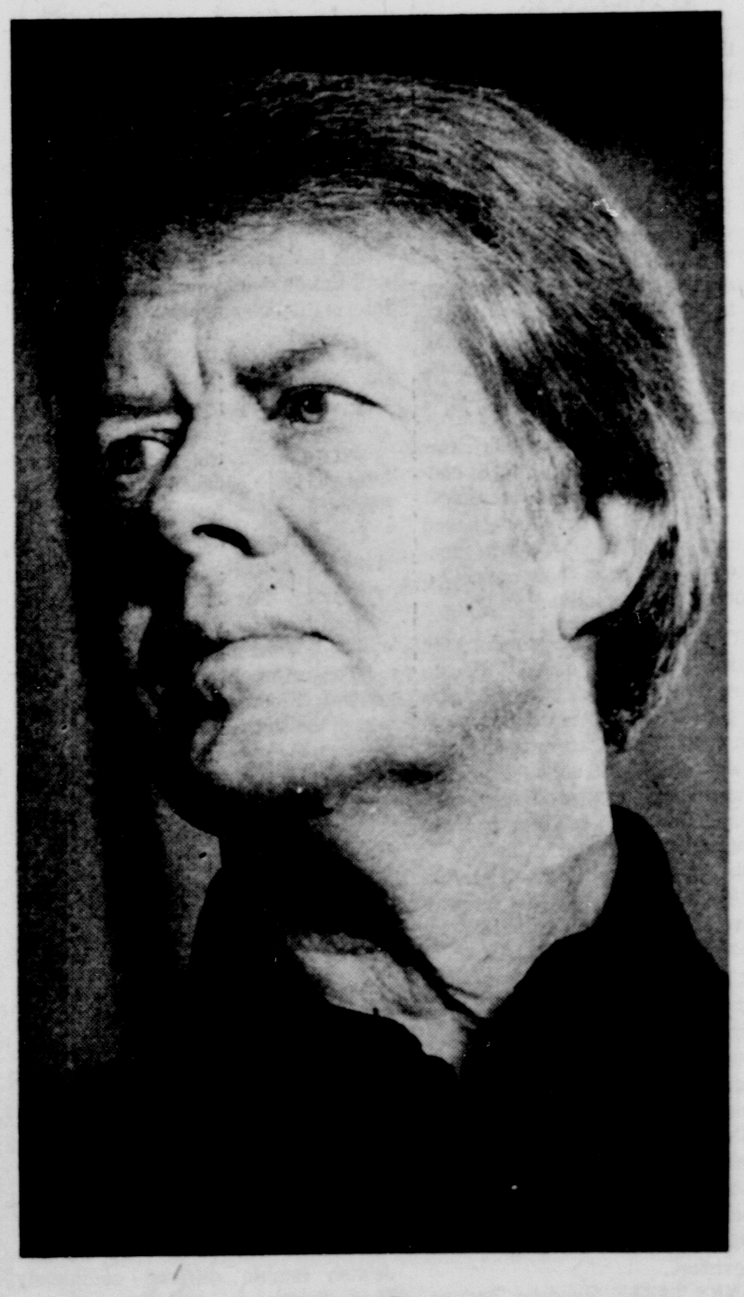

Both relate how Carter nearly lost his life when he was swept off the deck of a submarine by a wave.

Each book quotes Carter's book more than 40 times.

The title for the Carter book, "Why Not the Best?" is derived from a question asked when he was applying for the Navy's atomic submarine program.

Carter relates meeting most of the major Presidential contenders during 1971 and 1972. He admits that he once viewed the Presidency with "reverence and awe" but later said "I lost my feeling of awe after the meetings. This is not meant as a criticism of

Stewart's album equally good on fast, slow sides

Playback
by Tom Von Malder

Rod Stewart's second American album, "A Night On the Town" (Warner Bros.), is a much more satisfying effort than the first one, "Atlantic Crossing."

"Night" was recorded in Hollywood and Miami and features among the guests Joe Walsh, Steve Cropper, Tower of Power horn section and Jesse Davis. Stewart's gal, Britt Ekland, even gets to do some heavy sighing on the end of "Tonight's the Night."

As before, the album is divided into a fast and slow side, and they are equally good.

Three of the four new Stewart compositions are found on the slow side and the best two deal with real subjects — "The Killing of Georgie," about a friend who was knifed in New York, and "Fool For You," about his love.

Stewart also resurrects Cat Stevens' neglected "The First Cut Is the Deepest," turning in a very soulful version.

THE FAST SIDE IS powered by a fine reworking of the old Manfred Mann hit "Pretty Flamingo" (which has one of Stewart's most appealing vocals) and two country songs, "Bib Bayou" by Gib Gilbeau of the Flying Burrito Brothers and the 1953 Hank Thompson hit "The Wild Side of Life."

The album closes with "Trade Winds," a song previously done by Roberta Flack and Maggie Bell. There is a nice vocal backup by Brooks Honicutt and singers.

When Stewart is "on," as he is in this album, rock doesn't have a better singer.

What would summer be without a Beach Boys album?

Luckily, this summer we have been given one of the best Beach Boys albums and their first studio album in more than three years. The title, "15 Big Ones" (Brother/Reprise), is a celebration of their 15 years together and the 15 rock gems found inside.

THE SONGS ARE nearly evently divided among new compositions — many by Brian Wilson, who has finally reemerged from seclusion, and rock oldies. The best of the oldies include the Chuck Berry's "Rock and Roll Music" (their new single), the Righteous Bros.' "Just Once In My Life," Fats Domino's "Blueberry Hill" and Freddie Cannon's "Palisades Park."

The best of the new songs in this album of guaranteed summertime fun and sunniness includes "It's OK," "TM Song" (with its comedy intro), "Had To Phone Ya" and "That Same Song."

Blood, Sweat & Tears and Chicago both helped pioneer the infusion of horns as a basic part of rock music in the late '60s. Since then Chicago has had the most commercial success, but new albums by both groups (their 10th in each case, I think) show Blood, Sweat & Tears has the creative edge.

BST's "More Than Ever" (Columbia) is a fine, well-arranged and varied album. "I Love You More Than Ever" is an excellent ballad with several classical touches and "You're the One" is not too far behind in quality.

FOR VARIETY, BST does a nice arrangement of Stephen Foster's "Katy Bell" and pianist Larry Willis contributes the instrumental dance number "Heavy Blue." Lead singer David Clayton-Thomas co-authors three songs and gives a very controlled performance for the most part.

The problem with "Chicago X" (Columbia) is that, like the name of the album, the music inside has not changed much. Only two melodic Peter Cetera ballads, "If You Leave Me Now" and the not-quite-as-good "Mama Mama," stand out and both songs are assisted by outsider Jimmie Haskell's string and French horn orchestrations.

Several vocals by both Robert Lamm and Terry Kath are almost unintelligible, underscoring the band's decline from the freshness of the early albums.

Soundings:

BURT BACHARACH is recording a new album, his first in several years and also is collaborating with lyriscist HAL DAVID. The duo wrote many classic songs, including "Raindrops Keep Fallin' On My Head."

Folk country singer HOYT AXTON is filming a McCloud television episode. Titled "Moscow Connection," Axton will play a country singer hooked on drugs who kicks the habit and helps Dennis Weaver smash an international dope ring.

Chicago's STYX is starting work on a new album, possibly to be called "Crystal Ball," which is due in September.

In the area: JOHNNY MATHIS, Thursday through Aug. 8, Mill Run Theatre, Niles; ELTON JOHN, Monday through Thursday, Chicago Stadium.

'Turning it off is heresy' says television official

The book stall

"THE COOL FIRE"
BY BOB SHANKS
Norton, $9.95

The three television networks growl menacingly when the threat of censorship impinges on their news departments, but they purr like pussycats when it comes to censoring their own entertainment schedules.

Bob Shanks spells out some of the reasons for the double standard in his book "The Cool Fire." The book is an entertaining and vastly informative guide to the television business, particularly for those interested in taking part in it, with only a slight bias toward ABC, where the author is a vice president.

Shanks opposes censorship in other media, from cabarets to books to concerts, but points out that in almost every other field, consumers spend more care on selection — not to mention money — "nor is their impact so widespread or cumulative."

"WHY NOT THE same standard for television, then?" he asks. " 'People can turn it off if they're offended,' you can argue. True, but they do not want to turn it off. Television is used mostly as a stroking distraction from the truth of an indifferent and silent universe and the harsh realities just out of sight and sound range of the box . . . people, like it or not, do not want to turn television off, and that is why they are so deeply offended when they are turned off by it."

That's just part of Shanks' answer, and the second half may be even more important than the first.

" 'Turn it off, if you're offended' is absolute heresay to those of us making television. Our mission is to enlarge the audience, not to shrink it."

Shanks' message is not that everyone ought to accept "total electronic oatmeal," just that it's necessary to start from reality in battling for better television.

SHANKS TAKES television seriously, but that doesn't stop him from seeing its ridiculous aspects, one of which is the maze of ratings systems, and the dubious value of some of the information gleaned from them.

He tells of the time he was producing the daytime "Merv Griffin Show" for NBC. The research department showed him a graph that was supposed to mark the second-by-second interest level evinced by a test audience.

At one point the graph peaked to show top interest.

"Quick," Shanks quotes Griffin as saying, "tell me what I did there, so I can do it some more.

"The researcher, in deadly earnest, replied, 'Florence Henderson punched you in the stomach.' "..

"THE JEWISH WOMAN IN AMERICA,"
by CHARLOTTE BAUM, PAULA HYMAN and SONYA MICHEL
Dial, $8.95

As a counterattack against all the palaver of recent years about the Jewish mother and the Jewish-American princess, the authors offer this probing, carefully researched account of the hardships and heroics of Jewish immigrant women in adapting to a new land.

The authors, one a professor of Jewish history, emphasize the diversity of the women themselves — the German Jewish female differed completely from the poorer, and later-arriving, Eastern European. Watch out, Portnoy, Mama's mad. (UPI).

'Murder By Death'

All-star cast saves film

by GENIE CAMPBELL

(A review)

Neil Simon and Mel Brooks are very funny men. Each in his own madness is capable of creating great comedy.

But when Simon comes out with a new offering, "Murder By Death," that hinges on the techniques and idiocy more closely associated with Brooks, the movie becomes — as it only could be — a weak imitation. It's even more evident since Brooks' new smash, "Silent Movie," is also out now.

"Murder By Death," a humorous spinoff of Agatha Christie's renowned "Ten Little Indians," does have its good moments. Some scenes are so ridiculous, in fact, that one is forced to let loose.

BUT OVER-ALL, Simon has let down his usual prolific, explicatory language for slapstick and satire that are pretty rough around the edges.

Still, the movie has its high points. The cast is one. A more eccentric gathering you'll never find, with Nancy Walker, Sir Alec Guinness, James Coco, David Niven, Peter Falk and Peter Sellers to name the toppers.

And one can't forget Truman Capote, who is a character in himself, even if he can't act.

Capote portrays an envious, crazy millionaire who invites the greatest detectives from around the world to partake of dinner and a midnight murder.

Driving up to the murky, dark manor house are Belgian police detective James Coco, who worries more about getting his daily allotment of chocolate than solving crimes; suspicious San Francisco private eye Peter Falk; England's dame sleuth Elsa Lanchester; the Oriental favorite, Sidney Wang, played by Peter Sellers, who does a great job spoofing the Charlie Chan series; and the sophisticated, married team of David Niven and Maggie Smith.

THEY ALL ARRIVE separately to be greeted at the door by a blind butler, Sir Alec Guinnesss, who is a treat to watch retaining complete composure as he commits the most bumbling mistakes — sticking stamps to the table instead of the envelopes, setting a fire on the bed instead of the fireplace.

The best is yet to come in the kitchen when deaf-mute cook Nancy Walker tries to communicate with the blind butler. As one might guess, the dinner is never served.

Unfortunately "Murder By Death" becomes so bizarre and repetitious it begins to lag two-thirds through.

Yet a murder-mystery it certainly is. Not only was I confused as to who committed the fatal crime; I gave up on the victim, too.

Then again, if the lines are too long to get in to see "Silent Movie," "Murder By Death," directed by Robert Moore, just might squeak by. Released by Columbia Pictures, it's rated R.

"Gator" — Burt Reynolds, who doubles as director, reprises his "White Lightning" role as moonshiner Gator McCluskey, this time on the right side of the law in a scheme to put Dixie vicelord Jerry Reed behind bars. Filled with comedy, violence and non-stop action. (PG).

"Eat My Dust" — Almost non-stop action in this nonsensical tale of a sheriff's son (Ron Howard) who steals a race car to win a girl's heart but only succeed s in demolishing an entire county. (PG).

"The Omen" — Satan is at it again, this time channeling his monstrous powers through the innocent-looking 5-year-old son of a politico Gregory Peck and Lee Remick. An extremely handsome production that is well acted and packed with plenty of spine-tingling suspense and chills. Not for the faint of heart. (R).

"Midway" — Spectacular naval and air battles enhanced by Sensurround for the delight of action fans but little in the way of involving drama or performances despite the all-star cast that includes Charlton Heston, Henry Fonda, James Coburn, Glenn Ford, Hal Holbrook, Robert Mitchum, Cliff Robertson and Robert Wagner (PG).

"Bad News Bear" — Salty, warmhearted and highly entertaining comedy about a dugout full of uncoordinated pint-sized misfits who make it into a sandlot baseball league under the dubious guidance of alcoholic coach Walter Matthau, abetted by the ace pitching arm of ex-tomboy Tatum O'Neal. Heavy on the four-lettered words. (PG).

Tennessee Williams revisited

by GLENNE CURRIE

(A review)

Tennessee Williams is having something of a revival in this Bicentennial year, and his "Kingdom of Earth" (a reworking of "The Seven Descents of Myrtle") had its New York premiere off Broadway last week.

The excellent production marks the public debut of the newly-formed Staircase Theatre Company, and could herald an important new group in New York. The Staircase has no home of its own as yet — it works out of executive producer Ralph Jannetti's apartment — and is putting the show on at the Impossible Ragtime Theatre.

"KINGDOM OF EARTH" is the one about a Mississippi small-holder dying of tuberculosis, who marries a showgirl--waitress from Memphis in an effort to prevent his part-black half-brother from inheriting the property, only to see his bride take up with the half-brother.

Maggie Askew, a big girl who really comes from Memphis, gives an astonishing performance as Myrtle: loud, vulgar, affectionate, skittish, sentimental, almost overcome by her good luck in becoming a landowner, earthy enough to leave the dying homosexual lot in favor of the over-sexed, revengeful Chicken.

Will Patton is nearly as good as Chicken, helped immeasurably by director Bill Patton (no relation): suspicious, taunting, violent, waiting for the river to flood the house and rid him of Lot once and for all. Michael Longfield has the unenviable role of Lot, consisting mostly of sitting in a chair being ironic and sarcastic while smoking and coughing.

THE PLAY STILL has faults — Chicken's unconvincing religious fervor should be excised, and the themes of mother fixation and impotence are by now over-familiar — but it has the Wlliams trade stamp and is funnier than most of his works, especially when acted as well as this production is.

Carter books . . .

them, but is merely a statement of fact."

THE OFTEN sermonic quality of Carter's speaking style comes through his book. For that reason and because the others rely heavily on the book for background, Carter's autobiography is the best of the three.

There is another book that will hit the national book stands in the near future entitled "The Miracle of Jimmy Carter," another version by Leslie Wheeler.

The Wheeler book merely updates the Carter career, and Turner's effort can be seen as sort of an Americanized "Quotations from Chairman Mao" that will be most popular among Carter fanatics who need a little inspiration from time to time.

The books say little about Carter that has not already been printed in newspapers or magazines, but generally the books represent a good cross-section of information about one of the most interesting political candidates to surface in America since off-beat, pacifist Eugene McCarthy launched his doomed - from - the - start Presidential bid in 1968.

WHEELER ADMITS there are still questions about Carter unanswered. She adds there is no way to predict what Carter will do as President. That is a statement which is accurate but not too profound.

Much more will be written about Carter in the coming months, and possibly one of the reporters who has traveled with Carter extensively will take time to write his thoughts. Clearly there is much more that can be said about this man.

William Rubin of Wheeling earned a first place ribbon for oil painting in the recent Boul-Mich Art Faire in Chicago. The fair was held on Michigan Boulevard from Congress to 8th Street and featured more than 200 artists.

Indian art directories available

Good news for collectors of American Indian arts and crafts: the Indian Arts and Crafts Board has issued revised editions of two source directories.

Both tell what can be bought where. Source Directory No. 1 lists native American-owned and operated arts and crafts organizations throughout the United States, including artist and craftsmen cooperatives, tribal arts and crafts enterprises and nonprofit native American arts organizations.

No. 2 lists privately owned and operated Indian or Eskimo designer-craftsmen-artist businesses that design, produce and market their exclusive products or Indian or Eskimo retailers and/or wholesalers of authentic native American arts and crafts products.

Free single copies of both directories may be obtained by writing Indian Arts and Crafts Board, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Smorgasbord pleases all appetites

Family dinner outings are sometimes complicated by everyone requesting something different. Other times, the choice of where to dine is difficult because no one is sure what he or she wants to eat.

The solution to both problems can be smorgasbords: there is something for everybody and lots of it, usually at reasonable prices.

Two smorgasbords visited recently are the Swedish Manor Smorgasbord, 203 N. Evergreen Ave., Arlington Heights, and the Scanda House located in Mount Prospect Plaza on Rand Road.

The entree selections are similar at the two restaurants. However, even though a lot of service is not expected at smorgasbords, the waitresses at the Swedish Manor are especially efficient at seeing you have whatever you need: drink refills, rolls, etc.

THE SELECTION of salads, entrees and desserts is wide-ranging at both establishments, though dessert carries an extra charge at the Scanda House.

At the Swedish Manor, tossed salad, cottage cheese, bean salad, potato salad, macaroni salad and herring highlight the salad section. They are chilled and well-prepared. Better yet, they lead you to the entrees.

Hot dishes on the week night we attended included roast beef, fried chicken, corned beef and cabbage, beef stroganoff, meatballs, mostaccioli, red snapped, mashed potatoes, stuffing and a peas and corn combination.

Like most smorgasbords, there are winners and losers — but the winners easily make up for the others, enabling the hearty eater to satisfy any overpowering hunger that may have originally driven him to the all-you-can-eat restaurant.

THE SELECTION does vary from day to day, but hopefully the owners of the Swedish Manor will realize that the red snapper, deep-fried in a light batter, has all-star potential and will make it a regular in the evening line-up. Without a doubt, it was the tastiest entree available.

The beef stroganoff and the meatballs were given top billing by my guest, but she didn't try the fish.

Dessert items included chocolate cake that was slightly dried out, chilled peaches that needed additional thawing, and apple slices. The last made up for the faults of the other two.

Adult prices at the Swedish Manor are $3.75 in the evening and $2.20 at lunch. For children ages 3-8, dinner is $1.95 and lunch is $1.35.

THE SALAD AND side dishes at Scanda House were much the same. Onion soup and bread pudding were two of the more unusual items available.

Entrees included chicken, spaghetti, roast beef, perch, and meatballs. There were also corn fritters, mashed potatoes and gravy, peas, green beans and carrots.

The chicken, meatballs and corn fritters were the decided favorites.

Prices at the Scanda House for adults are $1.99 for lunch, $2.89 for dinner Monday through Thursday, and $3.29 for dinner Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

On Mondays and Tuesdays senior citizens receive 50 cents off the regular price.

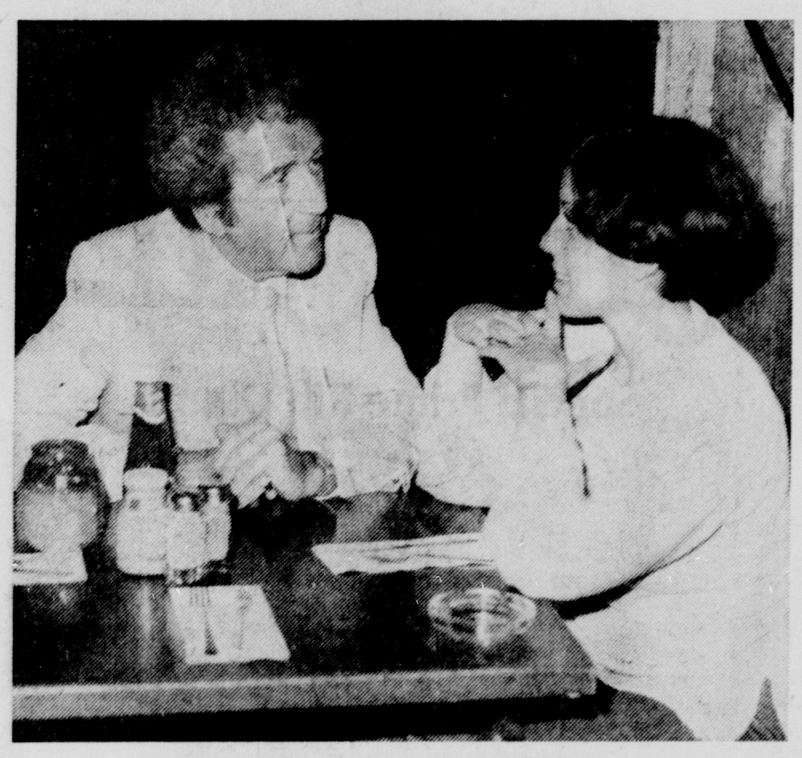

Children under two eat free and children from 3-10 are charged 15 cents per year of age.

Music by Fred Waring still affects millions

by BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

Tens of millions of Americans have heard the music and melody of Fred Waring for 60 years.

Few realize that millions more people, not just his Pennsylvanians, sing the way they do today because of Waring.

Fall, winter and spring he is on the road non-stop with his choral group. Summers Waring is home in Delaware Water Gap, Penn., where for 30 years he has run workshops for school music teachers.

Waring says 30,000 persons have attended those workshops and 25,000 of them were music teachers. He remembers one who was responsible for 7,000 pupils every year, another who was superintendent of music in Philadelphia.

WHETHER THEY'RE from Philadelphia (population 2 million) or Baraboo, Wis. (population 8,000), those teachers go home with an armload of Waring arrangements phoneticized syllable by syllable so anyone can sing it as Waring wants.

His Shawnee Press has published millions of copies of Waring arrangements since 1946, when a handful of teachers who had listened to his radio show asked if they could observe him working during Christmas vacation. They liked his arrangement of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," wanted to try it at home and someone suggested "why don't you publish it."

"Battle Hymn" alone has sold 5 million copies. Waring said such greats as Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, Cole Porter and Rogers and Hammerstein asked him to publish choral arrangements of their songs because "any songwriter wants to be sung in the schools. They want to be sung by future generations."

"When you talk about how many people have been influenced (by his published arrangements and the music schools) it has to be in the millions," Waring said as he unwound after his final concert of the 1975-76 season, a tent show at the White Mountains Festival of the Arts.

THE CONCERT was what it has been for decades — always the same, always new.

Always new are the latest songs in Waring arrangements. Always the same are the beautiful blend of voices, the clear enunciation, the old favorite songs, the high hilarity of music master and singers which rapidly spreads to the audience.

Seventeen years ago the hilarity was Waring introducing "sweet love songs," and the soloist ripping into "Mack the Knife." "That's not a love song," Waring interrupted. "I love that song," the tenor yelled back.

This year the shouts of delight came when Waring introduced "the songs America loves best" and they turned out to be a medley of soulfully sung commercials for hamburgers, malts and margarine.

Songs top the jokes at Hilton

LARRY ALAN and MIKE SHANE started off their comedy act opening night at ARLINGTON PARK HILTON by announcing that they'd driven straight through to the Windy City from their home base in the Catskills the night before. It may have explained a few of their weary jokes but not their choice of material.

The young, slick duo spent close to an hour trying valiantly to perk up the sparse crowd, but the predominately Jewish, gay and sex-based humor didn't quite fit the bill.

Comedy seems to be settling down into predictable cliches these days, and Alan and Shane hit most of them — from the 400-pound wife jokes to cracks about paying 50 cents to get mugged in the subways of the Big Apple. Bathroom humor, in particular, appears to be the current vogue, and the Top of Hilton patrons certainly had their fill from this duo.

In all fairness, much of the act is entertaining. Alan's visual gags and shenanigans with a trumpet were perfectly timed, and a takeoff on an old Abbott and Costello routine about the positions on a baseball field was well-received.

The duo split up the jokes with a fast-paced medley of oldies, and the primarily middle-aged audience readily identified with the selections, ranging from "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" to hits by the Everly Brothers. The backup orchestra headed by Jack Prager was a skillful addition to the act.

Alan and Shane's singing abilities, in fact, often upstaged their humor. Maybe they should take up crooning full-time and leave their crime in the subway jokes behind.

Alan and Shane will be appearing at the Hilton through Aug. 7.

Art market reverses its downturn

by FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

Dire predictions of another "hair-raising year" for the American art and antiques market have provied unfounded, and the 1975-76 seasonal report of the nation's largest art auction house showed net sales 30 per cent ahead of last year.

Sotheby Parke Bernet, Inc., one of the world's Big Three auction salesrooms, reported net sales at its Madison Avenue galleries of $61.7 million. Sales at its Los Angeles and auxiliary New York salesrooms are expected to bring the firm's total sales close to $73.5 million.

This represented a dramatic increase over the 1974-75 total sales future of $59.1 million, which was considered a disaster after total sales of $82.3 million in 1973-74. The worldwide recession was blamed for that 28 per cent slump. Sotheby's annual report said it boded ill for the 1975-76 season and remarked, "1974" will certainly remain in our memories as a hair-raising year."

THE MARKET began to make a slow recovery in the spring of 1975, bounced back to near record breaking form last June and July and has never looked back since. Sotheby Parke Bernet boasted that the season just closed was as busy as during the great 1972-74 boom in art and antiques collecting, which accounted for sales in the hundreds of millions of dollars worldwide.

"I think the success of the season here in the United States can be attributed to broadened collecting interests by Americans, whose bidding became more successful against stiff European competition of recent years," said John L. Marion, second generation president of Sotheby Parke Bernet.

"Contemporary art had been one of the areas of the market most hurt by recession, but a group of major large paintings sold in May broke auction records for the artists and seems to have reversed the trend."

Marion pointed to the March 17 sale of Impressionist and Modern art from the $6.6 million collection of the late financier, Joseph Rosensaft as an indication that American private collectors — not dealers and Europeans — are increasingly dominating auction sales.

AMERICAN collectors accounted for 51 per cent of the purchases, American dealers only 16 per cent and foreign purchasers 33 per cent. The sale was notable for a record auction price for a Post Impressionist — $1.4 million for a Tahitian period Gauguin.

"It is interesting to note that the Americans come from all over the country," said Marion.

"We used to look to New York, Los Angeles, Texas and Palm Beach for private buying in American sales. Now it is much more widespread nationally."

Analyses of Sotheby Parke Bernet auction results indicated a new excitement in areas of collecting that have long been considered unfashionable or a poor investment. Some of these areas are:

• 19th Century art including the story-telling and genre paintings and French table-top bronze statuary, especially of animals. Quantities of works in these categories boosted the total of the sale of the late Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge's collections to $5.5 million last fall.

• Ancient, Western Asiatic and Islamic art, which jumped from 20th rank among Sotheby Parke Bernet departments, to sixth. The sale of Iranian art has been spurred by the acquisitiveness of oil-rich collectors from Iran, but Egyptian, Greek, Etruscan and Roman works are in demand with a wide spectrum of collectors.

• Americana, given a lift by the Bicentennial year. Early American art was up 43 per cent in sales at Sotheby's, which was flooded with founding families' furniture, a European collector snapped up Houdon's bust of Franklin for $310,000 and lent it to New York Whitney's Museum, Ed Pettie paid $150,000 for Edwin Dallin's monumental Indian bronze and gave it to his hometown, Muncie, Ind., and the David Library of the American Revolution, Washington Crossing, Pa., acquired a trove of Washington correspondence for $225,000.

• Japanese prints, which fetched 42 per cent more than expert estimates st Sotheby's major print sale. Rare and important impressions edged into the $20,000 range. Even colorful decorative prints of minimal quality brought more than $100.

• Chinese porcelains, which can be described as almost out of sight for most collectors. A 16th Century Ming multi-colored jar of previously unrecognized rarity, purchased from a Philadelphia antique shop 30 years ago for $150, was knocked down to a London dealer for $260,000 at a Sotheby sale. Porcelains at this auction soared 35 per cent above presale estimates.

• Jewels the favorite of rich international private collectors in search of small, easily moved treasures (in case of a quick getaway). Sotheby chalked up a record for a U.S jewel sale last Oct. 15-16 for a total of $5.1 million, almost a million above the high estimate. The 30.7 carat Jonker No. 4 diamond sold at $18,000 per carat, twice the carat price paid for the 33.1 carat Krupp diamond in 1968.

• Photographs by the pioneer photographers of the 19th Century and the Old and New Masters of the 20th Century. The market is so new that auction prices still are unpredictable, but Alfred Steiglitz prints are in the $1,500 to $3,000 range and Walker Evans' around $1,000. Early works bring under $1,000 unless they are of historic personages or scenes.

(United Press International)

SOTHEBY PARKE BERNET, Inc., recently sold this early Ming Jar for $260,000, setting an American auction purchase record for any piece of porcelain and for any piece of Chinese art. It was bought in the late 1940s for only $150.

Pamela Eichman— William Mitchell Jr.

Fifty of Pamela S. Eichman's students at Mother Guerin High School in River Grove attended the June 26 ceremony in which she became the bride of William C. Mitchell Jr. Seven of the students sang and played guitar for the couple's wedding mass.

Pam's sister Kathy was her maid of honor, wearing a yellow knit gown and carrying yellow roses and baby's breath tied with yellow streamers.

Gowned exactly like Kathy were the bridesmaids: Maureen O'Hara, Arlington Heights; Charleen Schindler, St. Louis; and the groom's sisters, Ginny and Eileen Mitchell. Junior bridesmaid was Clare Mitchell, another sister of the groom.

HIS ATTENDANTS included Dave Bunten, Glenview, as best man, with the bride's brothers, John and Jim Eichmann, Bill Schindler of St. Louis and Bob Eerbach of Glenview as groomsmen.

After spending a week's honeymoon in Jamaica the newlyweds are living in St. Louis where the groom is associated with National Acceptance Co. of America.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Body changes clue to state of health

I have taken both cortisone and ACTH for arthritis of the arm and back. You state in your column that the ACTH stimulates your healthy adrenal cortex. How does a doctor come to this delicate conclusion without first checking the patient's adrenal cortex to see if they are healthy? What tests should be given to check a patient's adrenal cortex?

When a young boy's voice changes and he starts shaving and has other changes, we know that he is forming male hormone. When a girl's appearance changes and she starts menstruating, we know she is forming female hormones. When a person starts losing weight despite eating a lot, feels hot, and has a number of physical characteristics doctors recognize, the patient has too much thyroid hormone.

So it is with the adrenal cortex. If it is producing too much hormone, certain changes in the body will occur, including changes in the face, called a "moon face." Too little leads to other changes and symptoms, including fatigue (but fatigue is caused by many things.)

The doctor uses all the information he gets from his history and physical examination to make a preliminary judgment about his patient's health and that includes how the endocrine glands are functioning. Sometimes he can make a definite diagnosis on the basis of the history and physical findings alone. Beyond that he uses tests.

The adrenal cortex hormones affect your body chemistry and the amount of the hormones or derivatives of these hormones in the blood or the amount eliminated in the urine can be measured.

The action of ACTH has been documented by laboratory studies in animals and in humans. When a test is done, the levels of hormones or their derivatives in the blood and urine can be measured. The patient takes the ACTH and the levels of the hormones and their derivatives are again measured. The ACTH stimulates an increase in these products formed by the adrenal cortex. You may be surprised to know that even the blood sugar level is affected. It usually goes up.

IT IS NOT NECESSARY to test these responses with elaborate procedures every time a patient is given ACTH. We know what the action of ACTH is. A patient like yourself with arthritis who is given ACTH usually does not have any defect or deficiency of the adrenal gland. Certainly if arthritis were that simple, it would be easy to control or cure, which it is not. By stimulating the normal adrenal cortex to increased activity there will be changes in the body. Sometimes these are in mood and personality. Prolonged administration of ACTH and cortisone can even cause significant psychiatric changes in some patients — with severe depression in some and maniacal behavior in others.

Chemical changes occur as noted in blood tests and evidence of inflammation disappear. The subsidence of inflammation gives the arthritic relief, but the disease process may be progressing. Since neither the ACTH nor the cortisone stop the disease and both have a number of adverse effects after prolonged use, many doctors prefer not to use them except in selected cases for special requirements, and then only under a watchful eye.

Sodium perborate can be used for bleaching

Dear Dorothy: I only know of sodium perborate in terms of brushing teeth and so am surprised by your references to it for bleaching. What do you bleach with it— and how do you use it? — Mrs. Herman Reichel.

In a sense, we surprise each other. I was using sodium perborate for bleaching long before ever hearing it was also used for brushing teeth. It's a compound made of sodium metaborate with hydrogen peroxide. You can readily see how mild it is if it is used for mouthwash and toothpaste. As a bleach, it is used for materials which can't stand anything as strong as chlorine. The customary bleaching mix is two tablespoons to a pint of hot water. But the amount used and the time of soaking depends on the stain.

Dear Dorothy: I'll bet thousands of people are as confused about the new postal rates as I was and can use this "hint." Ever since the first of the year when the first-class rate went to 13 cents, I've been putting two stamps on mail that went over the ounce mark. Had to go by the post office to mail several items and was surprised to see the clerk apply one 13-cent and one 11-cent stamp. That's what the extra ounce or part of an ounce costs — 11 cents. It isn't much, but every bit helps. — Jeanne Wynn

Many thanks Jeanne. You don't see many Postal Service signs reminding people of this little money-saver.

Dear Dorothy: Here's a handy "rule" for those who like to bake. Always leave about two inches between baking pans and the wall of the oven. This keeps the edges of pies and cakes from getting too brown. — Helen McGrath.

Ask Andy

Monarchs migrate 2,000 miles

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Melissa Weakly, 10, of Bonne Terre, Mo., for her question:

DO MONARCH BUTTERFLIES REALLY MIGRATE?

They surely do. Most butterflies live only a few days or weeks. But the sturdy monarchs live through the winter by migrating south to warmer regions. And if you would really like to be in the thick of a butterfly migration, plan to visit Pacific Grove, Calif., in October. This is where hundreds of thousands of these regal insects spend their winters.

The large and beautiful monarch butterfly spends the summer months flitting from flower to flower in our gardens sipping nectar from its straw-like proboscis. As the warm summer days draw to a close, the monarch population begins to increase. These late summer monarchs are the butterflies that will participate in the autumn migration. Generations born in late spring and early summer complete their life cycles too early to join in.

As autumn weather makes its colder presence felt, the monarchs begin moving southward. In small groups of hundreds or larger masses numbering in the thousands, they fly southward until, like small streams flowing into a large river, the sky is filled with their velvety orange and black wings. For some, the trip is short, ending in the warmth of a sheltered valley. Others that begin their trip farther north, perhaps in eastern Canada, travel more than 2,000 miles to their wintering grounds in southern Mexico.

Usually flying at an altitude of 15 feet, the butterflies flutter at 11 m.p.h. Slow, perhaps, by modern freeway standards, the monarchs fly with a dogged purpose, and even though storms and buffeting winds slow them these tiny creatures, weighing less than a bird's feather, fly on. The monarchs generally make overnight stops to rest up, but if necessary they can fly 650 miles without alighting.

One of the most famous wintering areas for the monarch is the town of Pacific Grove, Calif. Here the monarchs gather in the same trees as did previous generations. Their numbers run into the hundreds of thousands. If you happen to be a visitor in Pacific Grove, the watchword is "Look, but don't touch," for the monarchs are protected by a city ordinance.

The monarchs wintering in Pacific Grove spend their days covering the branches of huge "butterfly trees," sometimes fluttering forth to visit a nearby garden. In the spring they begin to head north. Their faded, tattered wings carry them far enough to find milkweed plants — and only milkweed plants — on which to lay their eggs. As the eggs hatch, the caterpillars feed on this one plant before encasing themselves in a jewel-bedecked pupa case from which the adult butterfly will emerge and continue its northward journey.

There are only a few, true migratory insects. Of these perhaps the monarch is the most famous. However, the monarch is not the only migrating butterfly. Certain varieties of the painted lady butterfly, sometimes called the "champion migrator," travel from California to Hawaii and from New Zealand to Australia.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Don Smith, 12, of Fayetteville, Ga., for his question:

DO HONEYBEES DIE AFTER ONE STING?

The highly developed society of honeybees consists of the female workers, the male drones and the queen bee, the female who lays the eggs for the entire hive. The drones have sort of an easy life because their only function is to mate with the queen. But they have no stingers. The queen has a smooth, curved stinger which she can repeatedly use to kill other queens who may threaten her royal position. The female worker, however, is not so lucky and may use her stinger only once.

The stinger of the female worker is straight, with hookline barbs on it. When she is threatened, or the hive is in danger from some intruder, she thrusts her stinger into the victim's flesh. The barbs grip into the victim as 22 muscles work to force it deep into the wound. Poison from the bee's body is pumped down into the stinger to make it all the more effective. Unfortunately for the worker honeybee, when the stinger is used it pulls part of the vital abdominal parts out with it, and she dies a few hours later.

TV 'seasons' expected to fade out

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television in the future will depend less on formal seasons while devoting more time to long-form entertainment, and will depend increasingly on made-for-television films instead of made-for-theater movies.

It has been fashionable ever since George Orwell wrote "1984" to use that date as a peg for predicting the future, but the seers at NBC are looking beyond to 1985 with their projections of the television trends.

A presentation made recently to the NBC affiliates had this to say about the future:

"We expect with some confidence that the motion of 'seasons' will gradually fade away. Instead, shows will premiere at varying times, scattered throughout the year.

"BY 1985, WE expect that half of the entertainment schedule will consist of long-form programs — specials, major sports, fewer movies but of blockbuster proportions and more made-for-TV films, mini-series and special events."

The emphasis on made-for-television movies is a must because the inventory of old movies that could be shown on television without bringing a blush to the censor's cheek has about run out.

The NBC projections of what the American way of life will become by 1985 indicate other changes, with the possibilities for daytime and Saturday intriguing.

"In 1960," according to NBC, "38 per cent of all women over 16 were in the labor force. In 1975, this had climbed to 46 per cent. The proportion will continue to rise, and in the mid-'80s will reach 50 per cent, a total of 45 million working women.

"While many of them will not be available to television on weekdays, they will be at home on weekends by the millions — particularly Saturday morning. With the relative decline in the number of children in the population, this may offer new directions in Saturday and Sunday morning programming."

Win at bridge

Prof shows his muscle

The Professor went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds and proceeded to run off all of his seven spades.

West signalled strongly in clubs so East chucked all his clubs in order to hold on to four hearts and the king of diamonds.

The Professor who liked to have fun with the student who had put him in the slam remarked, "You wouldn't have bid all you did without the eight of hearts would you?"

Then the Professor showed East his hand, led the nine of hearts to dummy's ace and the deuce of hearts back toward his own hand.

East had no defense. If he played low the Professor would win with his seven, cash the king, throw East in with the king of diamonds and make him give dummy the last trick with the queen of hearts. If East split his honors, South would take his king, throw East in with a diamond and make him give dummy the last two tricks with the queen-eight of hearts.

West blamed East for the double and said that he would have led a club and beaten the contract if East hadn't doubled, but West was wrong. We will leave you readers to figure out how the hand makes with a club lead.

Stars seek upset

Emotion played a major role in the success of Ara Parseghian's Notre Dame football teams and it could be an important factor tonight when Parseghian's first College All-Star team meets the National Football League champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Parseghian sees the effect of emotion as a two-way street.

"I think it could be of major importance for us," he said, "But I think it can be a big help to them too."

Still, most of the All-Star players count on Parseghian to get their morale high and keep it high going into the contest, for which Pittsburgh is a 17-point favorite. The All Stars have not won since 1963, losing the last 11 games.

Parseghian believes his team can pull off an upset.

"If we play an error-free game, the fans are in for a surprise," he said. "I like the underdog role and I think the players do too."

Physically the Stars will be on a par with the Steelers and perhaps will have an edge in overall speed. But the Steelers will have the advantage of experience playing together.

"This is a one-game schedule," Parseghian said. "It might be different if we had four or five games to play together and I would like it that way. But we'll just have to play it like a one-game season."

It's unlikely the Stars can defeat the Steelers unless the collegians' passing game clicks and Parseghian may switch his personnel until he finds a combination that works. His starting lineup won't be determined until almost game time.

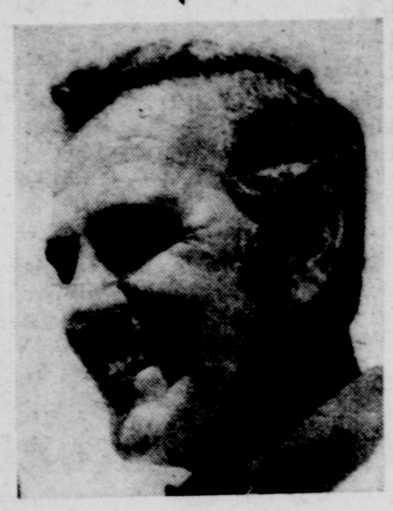

However, it was likely that Craig Penrose of San Diego State, Mike Kruczek of Boston College or Jeb Blount of Tulsa would get the call at quarterback and either might be able to do the job.

Penrose was the national collegiate leader in passing in 1975, throwing for 2,660 yards and 15 touchdowns, and second in total offense with 226.4 yards per game. Kruczek set a collegiate career record by completing 66.8 per cent of his attempts.

Top receivers could be Bill Brooks of Oklahoma, Duriel Harris of New Mexico State, David Logan of Colorado, Brian Baschnagel of Ohio State, Larry Dorsey of Tennessee State or Sam White of Grambling, or such backs as Joe Washington of Oklahoma, Archie Griffin of Ohio State or Chuck Muncie of California. Muncie, Jim Jensen of Iowa, Tony Galbreath of Missouri, Griffin and Washington should be the prime ball carriers.

The Steelers will have virtually the same personnel that has won the last two Super Bowls, including quarterback Terry Bradshaw, running backs Franco Harris and Frenchie Fuqua and such receivers as Lynn Swann, John Stallworth and Frank Lewis.

The game will be blacked out in Chicago, with the kickoff scheduled for 8:30 p.m. The pros have won 30 games, the All-Stars nine and two have been tied.

Will Ara smile tonight?

Montreal: The Nadia and Kornelia Show

MONTREAL (UPI) — Kornelia Ender, a 17-year-old East German blonde who originally took up swimming on doctor's orders to cure pains in her hips, Thursday night became the second woman athlete in history to win four gold medals in a single Olympics.

Ender matched her own world record in winning the 100-meter butterfly swim in 1:00.13, then came back less than 20 minutes later to take the 200-meter freestyle in 1:59.26.

That time knocked more than a half-second off her own record, set last month.

The only other woman to win four gold medals in a single year was Holland's great runner Fanny Blankers-Koen during the 1948 Olympics at London. But Ender will have an opportunity to surpass that record Sunday night when she swims with her powerful teammates in the 400-meter freestyle.

The performances by Ender in the modernistic new Olympic Pool took the spotlight away momentarily from another brilliant athlete from behind the Iron Curtain.

Romania's Nadia Comaneci, the 14-year-old moppet whose artistic and agile gymnastics routines have dazzled a worldwide television audience estimated at up to a billion, won her second gold medal of the games Thursday night.

She did it the same way she won her first one on Wednesday — perfectly.

Another standing - room - only crowd at Montreal's historic Forum roared like a crowd of alumni at a college football game when the judges awarded Comaneci her fourth consecutive perfect 10.0 score on the uneven parallel bars. That gave her the gold medal on that apparatus after she had been shut out in vaulting.

On Wednesday, Comaneci won the gymnastics all-around title with a 79.275 score of a possible 80, the highest score in history.

Her perfect routine on the bars was her sixth — count 'em six — of the week, and 22nd overall of her career.

Before these Olympics, there never had been even a single 10.0 score awarded in Olympic gymnastics.

Ender led all the way in the 100 butterfly. In the 200 freestyle, she trailed only briefly, then began pulling away with long, powerful strokes that left American Shirley Babashoff a distant second.

The U.S men continued their domination as Brian Goodell made it eight victories in a row.

Goodell broke his own world record in the 400-meter freestyle with a time of 3:51.53 Thursday to win his second Olympic gold medal by edging American teammate Tim Shaw, the top freestyler in the world as recently as four months ago.

Goodell, a 17-year-old from Mission Viejo, Calif., erased the record of 3:53.08 he set in winning the U.S. Olympic trials last month. Goodell collected his first gold medal Tuesday night by winning the 1,500-meter freestyle, in which he also broke his own world record.

Shaw, an 18-year-old Long Beach State student, swam his best race since his stroke and his confidence fell apart in April's AAU indoor national championships. Last year's Sullivan award winner as the nation's top amateur athlete, Shaw also surpassed the world record with a time of 3:51.53.

Russia's Vladimir Raskatov won the bronze medal.

After eight men's swimming events the Americans have swept all the gold medals and won 17 of a possible 24 medals.

It was the American men's 10th world record-breaking performance of the Olympics.

The United States 400-medley relay team of John Naber, John Hencken, Matt Vogel and Jim Montgomery Thursday night broke the world record with a time of 3:42.22 to pick up the Americans' ninth Olympic gold medal in nine men's swimming events. Canada's relay team also surpassed the world record to finish second, and West Germany finished third.

In women's basketball the U.S. capitalized on a 6:14 Canadian dry spell in the second half Thursday night to score 14 straight points and post a 89-75 victory to keep its hopes alive for medal in the inaugural women's Olympic basketball tournament.

After Sylvia Sweeney scored a basket to give the Canadians a 56-54 lead with 13:12 left in the game, six Americans combined for the 14 points with Susan Rojcewicz contributing four of them. That gave the U.S. a 68-56 lead and the Canadians could get no closer than 10 the rest of the way.

Nancy Dunkle of LaHabra, Calif., led the U.S. with 15 points while Juliene Simpson of Gallup, N.M., added 14. Canada was led by Carol Turney with 24, 14 of which came in the second half as she tried desperately to keep Canada in the game while her teammates went cold. The victory gave the U.S. a 2-1 record and a tie for second place with Japan behind Russia. Canada fell to 0-3.

The United States also got a boxing victory from light welterweight Ray Leonard of Palmer Park, Mo., who pounded out a unanimous decision over European champion Valery Limasov of the Soviet Union.

American light flyweight Greco-Roman wrestler Mike Farina of Elmhurst, Ill., stepped on the scale Wednesday to meet the 48-kilogram weight limit for his Olympic bout. The overweight light blinked off and on weakly.

Farina spat out his chewing gum.

The overweight light went off and Farina passed the weight test.

The United States picked up a third gold medal Thursday night when Air Force Capt. Phil Boggs, a two-time world champion, won the three-meter springboard diving.

THE PAST and the Present. Russia's Olga Korbut (left) gives the eye to Romania's Nadia Comaneci during the Olympic games. Nadia won three gold medals and recorded six perfect scores to replace Korbut as the sweetheart of women's gymnastics competition.

How to tell if it's Olympic games

MONTREAL — Welcome to the Montreal Olympics, World War III in cleats.

It is traditional in some countries to signal the start of a game by throwing out the first ball. The Canadian prime minister signaled the start of the Olympics by throwing out the first country.

They are highly fearful of an "incident" here. So, Mons. Trudeau provoked one to touch things off. He is pouring oil on troubled fires, aiming his ship of state resolutely toward the iceberg. Into an already-explosive political situation, he has lobbed a burning rag.

You know it's an official Olympics when the first boycott emerges. That's a surer signal than the ignition of the Olympic flame, which Trudeau may douse anyway before it gets a chance to burn.

Like boycotts, or unfathomable political decisions, there are other unvarying signs that the quadrennial games are indeed with us again and you may confidently expect the following to happen on schedule sometime during the games:

Friday, 11 a.m. — The Great Shoe Controversy, as unfailing a harbinger of the Olympics as a robin of spring, erupts in the village. A sinister fellow named Art Simburg regularly comes on stage at this time in flowing cloak and curling moustache, trifling with the eligibility of world sprinters as his part in the hotly competitive spiked shoe business, the theory being that if an Olympic gold medal winner wears Puma shoes the whole world will promptly start showing up for work in spikes.

The Great Shoe Controversy usually dwindles off in a lot of name-calling and finger-pointing but no one so far has found the smoking check. When they do, only then can Puma or Adidas justly claim that their shoes affected the outcome of a race.

Friday, 5 p.m. — Hot rumor sweeps the press center that 14 Russian women and two American men failed the sex test. An even more unbelievable rumor has it that all the Bulgarian women shot putters passed it. The sex test is not as simple as you might think. A simple public shower in front of a jury of three people whose glasses don't fog up doesn't get it. The presence of a beard is not proof positive the subject is a man.

The seat of sex in Olympic pathology is the inside of the face cheek. They scrape a piece of skin there and frequently find out under a microsope that some of the Olgas should be named Boris and an occasional Chuck should be named Lucy. There is no appeal from this incontrovertible pathological finding, not even an operation in Denmark.

The fact that all members of one women's discus team sing baritone and chew tobacco or that one member of the British boxing team wears high heels and hats with flowers in them between fights (or asks the doctor for a date) shall not be deemed prejudicial. If his cheek shows he's as masculine as John Wayne or she's so feminine she's scared of a mouse, then they are not only legally free to run or fight but even to marry.

Friday, 8 p.m. — Story spreads that the Iranian weight lifting team has had all its blood replaced with that of a lion, type O, and memers have begun to roar and chase zebras and have to be trained with a chair and a whip. This panics the Olympic committee and draws a charge of "unfair!" from other delegations because it is well known that lions don't get hernias. Recommendation is made that each man must compete with the same blood he had in the Olympic trials unless, of course, he has in the interim been bitten by a shark.

Saturday, noon — Threat of a hijacking attempt will send security police into action. They will confiscate all passes of journalists and restrict their movement to an area of one city block even though there is no evidence any journalist in the history of the business ever killed anything bigger than a fifth of whisky and wouldn't know which end of a gun to point. This tight surveillance of the flower of world journalism will permit the Inspector Clouseaus-Peter Sellers of the Surete to wave the real threats to the peace grandly into the Olympic Village or provide police escorts for their machine gunners.

Saturday, afternoon — International pole vault officials will break into Americans' quarters and make off with all fiber-glass poles and replace them with bamboo sticks 10 feet long. An American will win a silver medal anyway.

Sunday 8 a.m. — Fervent plea that the Olympics cease to be "nationalistic" or chauvinistic or breast-beating or sword-waving in character will be printed in national newspapers. Directly above will be a story giving the gold medal count which shows America comfortably ahead of East Germany, Russia and all those other

After 8 years in the minor leagues

Dream comes true for Sox rookie

by BOB GALLAS

The road to the major leagues has been along one for Wayne Nordhagen, the newest member of the White Sox. It's taken five different major league organizations and eight years worth of perseverance.

Nordhagen, who the Sox picked up last week from Oklahoma City of the American Assn. in exchange for Rich Coggins, has oddly enough had a successful minor league career, but never stepped into a major league uniform.

He was hitting .315 with 65 runs batting in when he came to the Sox. Even so, the first thing he thought when told he'd been traded to the White Sox, was that he'd be going to the Sox minor league club at Iowa.

"I said there's no way I'd report to Iowa. After eight years on pro ball, I didn't need another move like that," said Nordhagen, who was quickly set straight by his manager, Jim Bunning.

So instead of returning to California to help run the clinical laboratories he owns, the 28-year-old outfielder is now analyzing how to hit baseballs in Comiskey Park.

Wayne Nordhagen

At 6-foot-2, 195 pounds, the right-handed hitting Nordhagen can hit with power, but prefers to go for the base hit. "I feel I can help the team more that way," he said.

His teammate at Oklahoma City was Jack Bastable, who prepared at Wheeling High School. "Oklahoma City has two good catchers so Jack plays about every other day," said Nordhagen.

"Jack's biggest asset is his versatility. He can play the outfield, first and third base, plus catcher," Nordhagen added. "And he's hitting over .300."

Nordhagen's career started in 1968 in the Yankee organization, where he spent five years. Except for 1969, a year mostly spent in the military reserve, he drove in an average of 53 runs a year. Hitting for an average of .270 he hit 14 home runs in each of his last two seasons in the Yankee organization.

"But I never even got invited to (spring training) camp," said Nordhagen.

He was traded to the Atlanta organization and spent three more years in their minor league system. After he had a good spring in 1973, he was told to go down for a short time in the minors and learn how to be a catcher — "and he'd be brought right back up."

"I never heard from them again," he said.

Dealt to the St. Louis organization this spring, he batted only once in spring training and the Cardinals told him he could make a deal for himself with another major league club. "That means you pay for the long distance phone calls and they get the compensation," he said.

The Phillies bought his contract and assigned him to Oklahoma City. And that's where he was when the Sox, who sorely need right-handed hitting, found him.

"I went down to the All Star game looking," said Sox vice-president Roland Hemond. "We've had good reports on Wayne before. One of our scouts saw him recently and filed a good report. Loren Babe, (manager of the Sox' Iowa team in the American Assn.) also was impressed," Hemond said.

Sox split twinbill with Detroit

The Detroit Tigers used the weapon the White Sox had so skillfully employed — strong pitching — to salvage the final game of the series Thursday night, 5-1, after Chicago won the opener, 9-3.

In the first three games of the two-day, four-contest series, the Tigers could only manage four runs off Sox' pitching. But in the second game of Thursday's twi-nighter, Detroit scored all the runs they needed off starter Rich Gossage, who allowed 13 hits in his complete-game effort.

Ray Bare, making his first start in six weeks, combined with John Hiller for the victory. Hiller came on in the eighth after Bare gave up singles to Johnson, Kevin Bell and Brian Downing to account for the only Sox run.

Hiller walked Bucky Dent to load the bases, but then fanned Wayne Nordhagen and got Ralph Garr to pop out.

Chuck Scrivener opened the Tigers' scoring in the first by singling home John Wockenfuss who had tripled. Singles by Rusty Staub, Jason Thompson and Aurelio Rodriguez in the seventh made it 2-0.

Thompson's two-run homer, his 13th, in the eighth made it 4-0 before Staub singled in the final run in the ninth.

In the opener, Lamar Johnson had three hits and three RBIs to pace Chicago's offense while John Odom earned his first win of the year against no losses.

Odom pitched 6 2/3 innings, allowing eight hits. The Tigers knocked out Odom when Rodriguez doubled, driving in two runs, and Ben Oglivie tripled him home. He got relief help from Pete Vuckovich.

Odom's counterpart, Frank MacCormick worked only 1 1/3 innings, leaving after the Sox scored four runs on three hits and three walks. He is 0-5.

Johnson singled home the first Chicago run in the first inning and doubled home two more in a four-run sixth. Bill Stein's home run accounted for the other two runs.

The four Sox runs in the sixth gave them a 9-0 lead, more than ample breathing room for Odom, making his first American League start in more than 13 months.

Mieuli, Alioto buy San Francisco 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO — Franklin Mieuli, owner of the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association, said Thursday he has made a deal to buy the San Francisco 49ers football team with former Mayor Joseph Alioto as his partner.

"We have met all the conditions of an offer of sale," Mieuli told UPI. He said he expects the papers to be signed within a few weeks but that he would not take over the management until the end of the current season.

Mieuli declined to state the price tag on the team, but said his deal matched terms of another offer that had pegged the club at $18 million.

Mieuli said he hopes to "Bring a little verve, a little interest, a little love" to the 49e, who have been slipping in fan enthusiasm during recent years.

American shooters protest finish

L'ACADIE, Quebec — Americans Larry Bassham of Fort Worth, Tex., and Margaret Murdock of Topeka, Kan., stood together atop the medal podium Thursday and accepted Bassham's gold medal in Olympic Three-Position Rifle competition to protest the international method for breaking ties.

Bassham, a captain in the Army, and Murdock, first woman ever to win a medal in Olympic shooting competition, had identical 1,162 scores. Bassham was declared the winner because he outshot Murdock, 98-96, in the final series of competition.

Bassham, who said he suffered for four years because he had to settle for a silver medal in the last Olympics, called the ruling giving him the only gold medal this time "rubbish."

Murdock said she thinks the fact she is a woman may have cost her the medal.

IOC rejects Gilkes request

MONTREAL — The International Olympic Committee Thursday rejected a request by an athlete from one of the nations which has withdrawn from the Games in protest that he be allowed to compete as an individual.

The IOC said it "unfortunately" had to turn down the appeal by sprinter James Gilkes of Guyana because his name had been withdrawn by his own national Olympic committee along with the rest of his teammates when Guyana walked out in sympathy with black African nations protesting the presence of New Zealand.

The IOC said there was no provision in the rules for allowing Gilkes to compete as an individual, but such a possibility "will be studied for the future."

The rejection of the 23-year-old runner, who is rated the world's third fastest 200 meter sprinter, marked the second time in four years he has missed an Olympics because of a political issue.

In 1972, Gilkes was denied an opportunity to compete in Munich when his government sided with those countries protesting the inclusion of Rhodesia.

Gilkes, a University of Southern California track star who was unbeaten this season in regular competition — he lost two races in the NCAA championships — held a news conference here to complain he was being sandbagged because of a political issue and this probably was his "last chance" for an Olympic gold medal.

Kuhn urges cable TV restraints

WASHINGTON — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and professional hockey and NCAA officials Thursday urged Congress to prohibit cable television firms from importing distant TV games to compete with local contests.

Kuhn said the Federal Communications Commission, or Congress if the FCC fails to act, should give local clubs the option to prevent importation of any baseball game into their home territory.

He cited for the House communications subcommittee, which is holding hearings on cable TV reforms, problems caused by importation of TV games into the Boston, Pittsburgh and San Diego areas.

Kuhn said in 1975, 11 cable firms within 35 miles of Boston were authorized to import signals of stations carrying the New York Yankees and Mets games; 20 firms near Pittsburgh carry Mets games and next year some will carry Cleveland Indians games.

Rookie leads Canadian Open

WINDSOR, Ont. — PGA tour rookie George Burns fired a five under par 65 for a one-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer and Jerry Heard after the first round Thursday of the $200,000 Canadian Open.

Burns, 27, of Delray Beach, Fla., carded five birdies and 13 pars in his round on the 6,696-yard par-70 Essex Golf Club Course.

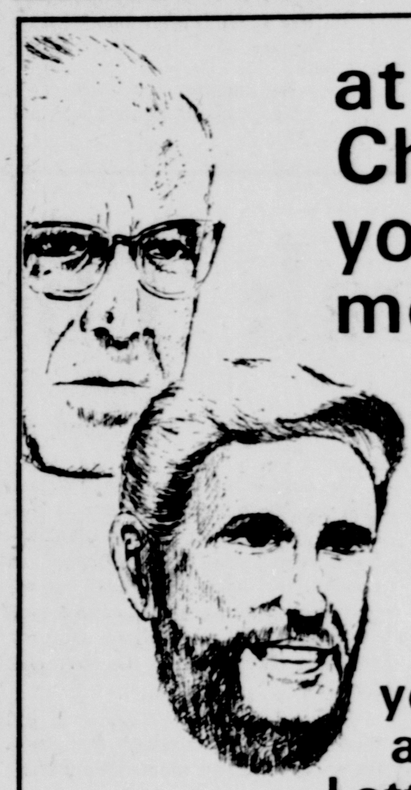

A graduate of the PGA Tournament Players School last fall, Burns' best showings thus far were third place ties at both the Bing Crosby and Houston Opens.

godless Communists.

And the decathlon winner will be gravely hailed as the "world's greatest athlete" as he barely beats 6 minutes in the 1,500, puts the shot out where high school kids do, pole vaults about what Dwight Stones high jumps, long jumps about a third of what Bob Beamon did at Mexico City and runs through instead of over the hurdles.

Taiwan will be asked to march in under the flag of the Bloomington, Ill., Elks Club.

Lord Killanin will announce that the games have once again demonstrated the essential brotherhood of man. Someone will note that none of this would have happened if Avery Brundage were alive or if Lord Killanin weren't.

Two Americans will wear bags over their heads on the victory stand to protest the terrible conditions they face at home — usually the beach at Santa Monica — but no Pole, Siberian, Romanian or Ugandan will be able to find any fault with their living conditions and will stand respectfully on the victory pad — so they won't have to check their medal in the warden's office when they get home.

When any and all of these things have happened then the XXI Olympiad will finally have begun with its enormous contribution to the peace and happiness of the whole world.

to Chicago before now, he almost made it earlier this year.

"I was almost a Chicago Cub," he said. The Cubs were very interested. I heard they were going to trade Tom Dettore for me, but things didn't work out."

He's comfortable at any outfield position, but is content to play anywhere and anytime Manager Paul Richards says. After eight years of striving, he's reached his goal and is just enjoying the feeling.

After the June 15th trading deadline passed, I figured I'd be spending the rest of the year at Oklahoma City," said Nordhagen, who's not complaining.

"That's Baseball."

Wohlhuter has his chief foe sized up

MONTREAL (UPI)—Former Notre Dame athlete Rick Wohlhuter, America's best bet for a gold medal in the track and field running events, is acutely aware the Olympic games can be a lot like Russian roulette.

"I try not to think about it, but the fact is the Olympics are a one shot deal," Wohlhuter said Thursday prior to his workout for the 800 and 1500 meters. "You try not to put too much emphasis on what you might not get."

Still, off his past performance which includes a world record of 1:44.1 at 880 yards, a lot of Wohlhuter's friends and supporters will be surprised if he doesn't win the 800 meters here. And that's why the 27-year old Chicago insurance salesman is worried.

"The guys I work with in my insurance office all sent me off by saying things like how they can't wait to see my gold medal," Wohlhuter said. "I appreciate their enthusiasm for me, but I don't want to spend the rest of my life going to cocktail parties and being introduced as either 'Rick Wohlhuter, the Olympic champion' or 'Rick Wohlhuter the Olympic choke.' That's the thing about these games, you're remembered for what you do here and nothing else."

Fortunately for Wohlhuter, the success of Dave Wottle in the 1972 Munich 800 meters, obscured the fact that he fell in his heat and never even made it to the finals. This time around, he's trying to keep everything in proper perspective — even though world 1500 record holder John Walker will be in the 800 and Kenya's Mike Boit is out.

"I'm sorry for Boit," said Wohlhuter of the man many believed had the best chance to beat him here. "He was a victim of politics. But I didn't train for any one opponent. I'm not gonna tell you the race is any less significant without him. I'd be just as happy if everyone pulled out and left me to run alone."

Walker, of course, is the man most everyone will be watching in both races, but Wohlhuter thinks he has his New Zealand opponent sized up.

"I don't think I've ever lost to Walker in the 800," Wohlhuter said. "At our best, I think it's safe to say I'm superior at 800 and he's best at 1500."

Wohlhuter added that he had only seen Walker a few times in the Olympic village and that the two exchanged a few pleasantries and nothing more. He didn't completely rule out getting together with his rival for a beer, however.

"It all depends on who's buying," said Wohlhuter, grinning.

Grandmother cheers Ender

SALINA, Kan. (UPI) — Rosalae Leehmann sat in front of her television this week waiting for a glimpse of the grandaughter she has been unable to contact since leaving East Germany 15 years ago.

"I was saying, 'come on Kornelia, come on Kornelia,' so she could win," the 66-year-old grandmother said Wednesday in a heavy German accent.

Mrs. Leehmann's grandaughter is 17-year-old blonde Kornelia Ender an East German Olympic swimmer who already has captured two gold medals in record-breaking time and could possibly win three more.

"The last time I saw Kornelia she was just a little girl. She was not even 2 years old," Mrs. Leehmann said. "It is very sad. She cannot write to America from Germany and we cannot send her any letters."

Mrs. Leehmann left her homeland in 1959 because of political problems. She and her late husband immigrated to the United States and settled in this central Kansas town. Most of her immediate family, however, remained in East Germany and she has been unable to establish contact with them since.

"I have some relatives in West Germany and sometimes Kornelia has her pictures in magazines and they send me them," Mrs. Leehmann said. "There was once a picture of the whole family and I saw them all. Even my son."

Mrs. Leehmann said she and her husband, who she married after the death of Kornelia's grandfather, briefly considered traveling to Montreal to visit the star swimmer.

"But, we couldn't afford it. My husband is retired," she said. "And besides we may not even have a chance to talk to her. Shes watched by agents, I think."

It would be doubtful that Kornelia would recognize her, Mrs. Leehmann said, because she was so young when they left.

"But I would recognize her. People say she looks like me," Mrs. Leehmann said. "If I saw her again I think I would not be able to talk at first — I would be crying. Then I would want to congratulate her and tell her how proud I am of her. Then I would say I have been your grandmother and I miss my son and family."

World's greatest athletes come out of the woodwork

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

Sixty minutes after he had scored more points than any decathlon performer in the history of the world, Bruce Jenner was out running along Agate Avenue, bordering the Oregon track stadium where he had strained his guts over a 34-hour period.

Two hours after that he was at a steak house drinking a beer, sipping on some Cold Duck — compliments of the house — and eating a Reuben sandwich. It takes Jenner a long time to come down from the rigors of the 10-event spectacle that captivates the track and field world every four years.

"Two weeks," he estimates, "before I'm back to normal." Right now he's returning his body to get ready for the Olympic decathlon test at Montreal for which he's been pushing himself the last half dozen years.

Decathletes only come out of the woodwork every four years. At the National AAU meet in 1974, Bruce Jenner — Claimant to the title of world"s best athlete — performed before 100 people in Eugene. A couple of years before that, in the same event, there were 167 people in the Los Angeles Coliseum. At Montreal, there'll be 70,000 to watch him duel with Nikolai Avilov of the Soviet Union, the defending Gold Medal winner.

And after that? Well, that's where 26-year-old Bruce Jenner illustrates the supreme hustle of Olympic competition.

Already, at Eugene's Hayward Field for the Olympic trials, he was trailed discreetly by a Hollywood agent who'll be his manager, by a young novelist who is collaborating on an autobiography, by a Beverly Hills lawyer who'll make sure that all deals are beneficial, and by his own entourage of friends, family and hangers-on.

Jenner has the handsome, rugged looks of an Austrian ski instructor. He is built perfectly for his event, at 6-2 and 195. He's glib and quick-tongued, His Prince Valiant haircut frames his face just right. He even has a strikingly beautiful bonde wife, Chrystie, who has worked these last four years as an airline stewardess while Bruce has concentrated 100 per cent on perfecting himself as a decathlete.

"When I look at O.J. Simpson carrying a football, I say, 'What a great athlete.' But a decathlete has qualities that merit the title. He has to be fast. He must run distance. He has to throw three ways. He has to jump three ways.

"It's an event of moderation. You have to be moderately good in a lot of things. It goes against the American ideal of specialization. If I weren't a decathlon performer, I would have dropped out of track and field a long time ago because I wouldn't have been good enough."

Bruce Jenner grew up in New York and Connecticut as the typically good all-around schoolboy athlete. He was recruited to go to Graceland College, a little Mormon school in Iowa.

In 1970, at the Drake Relays in Des Moines, he competed in his first decathlon and was hooked. He gave up football and basketball and water skiing.He had won the Eastern water skiing championship three times.

"After graduation," he says, "my wife, Chrystie, and I took stock and decided that I had a shot at becoming a world's champion and decided to give it one more try for the next Olympics.

They moved from New York to San Jose, where a track and field cult of champions was setting up a training base. He trained intensively 11 hours a day. Among his exercises was an uphill sprint of 300 yards on the Stanford University golf course, followed by a jog down, repeated 20 times in succession. He also ran 10 miles a day.

In setting a world's record high of 8,538 decathlon points in the recent Olympic trials, Jenner had better performances in six events — the 100-meter dash, 110-meter high hurdles, high jump, pole vault, discus and javelin — than the individual gold medal winners in those events at the '28 Olympics in Amsterdam.

Last year at Eugene in a dual meet with the Russians, he defeated Avilov and set a world' decathlon record. There has been criticism from the Eastern bloc nations that Jenner doesn't work for a living while their athletes at least nominally hold down jobs. The charge amuses him.

"I'm more motivated," he says, "in what I'm doing than 90 per cent of the American people." And he can apparently afford it on Chrystie's salary. They live in a two-bedroom townhouse and own a Porsche and a Honda.

"The future looks interesting," says Bruce, "if I pull off the Games. I don't want to go in there grabbing, like Spitz did. I don't even know if I can act."

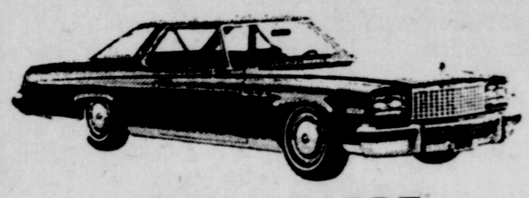

But he sure can run and jump and throw.

Instant celebrity Nadia may make visit to Chicago

Fan's forum

Fans Forum:

Now that Nadia Comanici is the darling of world gymnastics, when will we here in America get to see her?

Sue Serriot
Hoffman Estates

EDITOR'S NOTE: Plans are in the making to feature Nadia, the perfect Romanian, in a special tour of the United States, and Mayor Daley's office has announced that Chicago will welcome her to the city and honor her with a special Nadia Comaneci Day. Is that quick action or not?

POLITICS AS USUAL

Dear Editor:

The highly political air surrounding the Montreal Olympics is not so unusual — at least not as unusual as most of the press is making it out to be. Politics is par for the course in the Olympics and naturally so. What can you expect when you get people from more than 120 countries together in one place? It's amazing there aren't more hassles.

There should really be no need to regret the boycott of the Games by some of the nations. That is their prerogative. The privilege to attend the Olympics brings with it the right to decline.

The important thing is that the world's best athletes get together to compete in a friendly atmosphere for the betterment of sport. If not all the nation's athletes can attend, or if the friendly atmosphere is marred by political friction, it shouldn't take away from the spirit of competition that has always made the Olympics the great attraction it is.

TAIWAN WAS WRONG

Fans Forum:

The hypocritical dealing with the Taiwan Olympic team were ironic indeed, to say the least. While everybody accused Canada of playing politics and lamented the loss of honor, etc, Taiwan got off scot-free. The line was: how could we sit back and let a nation be thrown out of the Olympics for merely standing up for their national being?

Let's be honest here. Taiwan or the so-called Republic of China was playing politics too. Their athletes were perfectly able to compete in the Olympics under just about any alternate name they chose. No one ever seemed to mention that Taiwan is embroiled in a losing battle with Communist China over the "rights" to the designation China. Those people who wanted to draw up a compromise simply advised Taiwan to call themselves anything but the Republic of China — and they refused. That's politics.

NO CHICAGO STARS

Dear Editor,

Just as any other avid baseball fan, the television was the place for me to be on Tuesday night, July 13. I knew, as anyone else, that the National League versus the American League has not been much of a contest in the past few years. I had a feeling that this year was to be no different than any other year and of course it wasn't.

But as I viewed the All-Star Game, I noticed the fact that only one player from each of the Chicago major league clubs represented their respective teams. My opinion may sound a little biased, but I have lived in the Chicago area all of my life and therefore am a very avid Chicago baseball fan. I was very disappointed when I watched the game and waited for someone in a Chicago uniform to appear on the playing field. I am also sure it was quite a disappointment for Steve Swisher of the Cubs and Rich Gossage of the White Sox, to be the only ones chosen from their teams to play in the All-Star Game, only to discover that they would just watch the game from the bench. Especially Swisher, who was the only non-pitcher from the NL not to play.

My interpretation of the All-Star Game was that all stars from all teams would play in the game to represent their leagues. I really considered this game to be a one-star game. It actually was Cincinnati versus the American League. At one point in the game, one announcer commented that Cincinnati had seven out of the 10 hits, and had driven in the most runs. Of course they had the most hits and runs, what can you expect when the box score showed that eight Reds played (the most out of any team in the major league).

I feel that NL manager Sparky Anderson could have used Swisher in place of one of his well-represented Reds. I feel exactly the same about how AL manager Darrell Johnson used his Boston player.

Year after year, the All-Star Game is just getting to be a repeat of the previous season's World Series. I feel there should be a rule stating that every team will play and participate in the All-Star Game. Probably for most Chicago fans the All-Star Game wasn't very interesting. I know for me it was just something else to watch besides the convention and old summer reruns.

CAR CORNER

with George Orth & Roger Nick

In the 1890s Americans still considered the automobile a somewhat freakish invention. They relied instead on railroads, bicycles, and horse-drawn carriages to get them around. And no wonder, in the America of those days only 200 miles of paved roads existed outside the cities. There was predictably little interest in European cars and engine development for about a decade after they had begun to be exploited in France and Germany. Soon after 1890, however, American automotive pioneers began assembling crude horseless carriages.

As representatives of one of the leading automobile manufacturers in the United States, the staff at RAY OLDSMOBILE, 501 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge, have a total commitment to our customers. We are the largest retail sales Olds dealer in the Midwest and have one of the most extensive parts departments in the area. With 20 factory-trained technicians on hand to serve you, we can probably repair your GM car faster and at less cost than anyone else in the area. Stop in any day, Monday through Friday, from 7 A.M. until 6 P.M., and discuss your car's problems with our Service Managers, George Orth and Roger Nick. Call us at 696-3200.

Boxers impress Benvenuti

MONTREAL — Boxing at the Olympic Games is better than ever, according for former world middleweight king Nino Benvenuti of Italy, who won a gold medal at Rome 16 years ago.

Flashing a smile that was familiar to millions of Americans TV boxing viewers and speaking in halting English with the help of an interpreter, Benvenuit had strong words of praise for the fighters who are competing at the Montreal Olympics.

"I am very impressed," he said. "The preparation of the Olympic boxers today is vastly superior to anything that's ever been done in the past.

"The boxers today are in superb condition and they've been cared for so well medically. The coaching they receive is excellent. When I was boxing as an amateur we didn't even take vitamins. I think a lot of gold medal winners in the 1960s and even at Munich four years ago would have a difficult time winning today.

"I know it would have been more difficult for me. But I have to be honest. I still think I could win. But the men who win gold medals today have to be super boxers."

Benvenuti who lost his world title to Argentina's Carlos Monzon in 1970 after holding it for four years, was warmly greeted by a bevy of friends from different nations. In retirement since 1971 he reported his weight at 165 pounds and looked ready to step into the ring.

He's here as an Italian radio commentator and doubles as a newspaper columnist.

Interestingly, the man he defeated on points for his gold medal in the welterweight class at Rome is at Montreal, too. He's Yuri Radoniak, now a trainer for the Russian boxing team.

Benvenuti said the most impressive fighter he's watched in the Olympic boxing competition was an American, "Sugar" Ray Leonard, who is a gold medal favorite in the light welterweight class.

"He boxes ilke a professional," the Italian praised. "He's very intelligent and he uses his imagination. He's not stiff and he's very loose. I think he has the potential to be a world champion if he turns professional."

Jockeys rate tops in conditioning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bill Shoemaker, the world's top winning jockey, admitted he felt he was slowing down at age 44 and was starting to take it easy. That is, until he heard the doctor's report.

"When Bill Shoemaker learned he was in better physical shape than many of the Los Angeles Rams, he became rejuvenated," said Dr. Robert Kerlan, renowned sports physician and Medical Director of the Institute and Orthopedic Consultant at Hollywood Park.

"When Dr. Kerlan told me I was better off than most 20-year-olds, wow," exclaimed Shoemaker. "It was mentally an upper. Where I was riding four or five times a day before the test, I'm back to six or seven races a day."

The fact of the matter is that most jockeys, even with their slight weight of about 110 pounds, are in better physical condition than most other athletes, including professional football, basketball, baseball and hockey players.

The conclusion was reached in a special study of 20 jockeys from Hollywood Park conducted by the National Athletic Health Institute. The Institute, which also conducted performance evaluations on more than 500 athletes from all sports, found that jockeys are "extraordinarily fit."

"Based on preliminary results, jockeys as a group have the best overall conditioning (of all athletes)," said Institute Director Jack Wilmore. "We were surprised with the jockeys' cardiovascular endurance, their upper and lower body strength and their flexibility."

In addition, the study found that the strength of the jockeys relative to their body size is "remarkable."

"In the bench press, where pressing your own weight is considered good, 80 per cent could press more than their own weight," Wilmore said. "Leg press values were also very high."

Kerlan, also team doctor of the Rams, said the exceptional fitness of the jockeys probably accounts for their longer than average athletic careers.

"It's probably the hardest, most hazardous sport there is," Kerpan said the jockey's task of riding atop 2,000-pound horses with little protection if the animal falls.

"A jockey must have great reflexes, coordination and flexibility of motion. His conditioning has to be excellent."

Results of the study were published in the current issue of The Physician and Sports Medicine.

LIKE A GOOD wine, jockeys appear to get stronger and better with age. Ageless 44-year-old wonder Willie Shoemaker exemplifies the belief.

$100,000 Renoir painting returned to N.Y. museum

NEW YORK (UPI) — A painting by the French impressionist Pierre Auguste Renoir stolen from the Brooklyn Museum in 1974 has been returned "in good condition" by mail in a brown paper wrapper, museum officials said Thursday.

The painting, "Still Life with Blue Cup," was accompanied in the brown paper wrapping by a note from the sender warning the museum to protect its art objects with armed guards.

The small oil painting, measuring six inches by 13 inches, was painted by Renoir around 1900. It was stolen from the Museum late in the afternoon of Dec. 12, 1974, during a 10-minute interval when guards left it unattended.

The painting arrived in the mail Wednesday afternoon, the museum spokesman said, and will be returned to its former place of exhibit on the fifth floor.

The package containing the painting, which was valued at "under $100,000" by an art expert who asked not to be identified, was addressed to Michael Botwinick, the museum director. It was sent through the regular postal system, the museum spokesman said.

"It's in good condition and is still on the original stretcher it was on when it left the museum," he said.

City police and the FBI were unable to unearth any clues as to who stole the painting.

"We don't know why it was stolen or why it was returned," the museum spokesman said. He said the painting was wrapped with tissue paper, taped to a small board, and wrapped in a pillow case, all of which was in a small garbage bag enclosed in the outer brown paper.
